U.S. RED CROSS CAMPAIGN — ANSWER THE CALL

VOL. LXXXIII—No. 137 CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 30, 1954. PRICE FIVE CENTS

'Boy of the Year'

Jerry Wheeler, 15-year-old high school student from Houston, Tex., holds citizenship award of Boys' Clubs of America after he was named "Boy of the Year" by the organization, in New York city (Mar. 29). Jerry won the award—a plaque with a gold-plated figure of a boy—on the basis of leadership in his local club, in his community and training as a "citizen of tomorrow." Club has a membership of 350,000. (AP Wirephoto).

Law Suits From Strike Press ILA

Court Contempt, Other Developments Plague Union Fighting Life Battle With AFL

New York, March 30 (AP)—The virtual shutdown of New York's multi-million-dollar port operations continued today, but the International Longshoremen's Assn. faced legal troubles from many directions in its 26-day strike.

Morning reports indicated that fewer dock workers were on the job than yesterday, when the total was put at 3,915.

Police estimated about 2,526 were handling cargo on New York piers today. Across the Hudson River in New Jersey, about 900 were said to be at work.

The port paralysis is the result of a showdown battle for waterfront representation between the independent ILA and AFL International Longshoremen's Assn.

Refuse to Work

A few AFL men have gone through ILA picket lines, but most have refused to do so.

Another AFL union—the marine warehousemen's group—also honored the picket lines in Brooklyn this morning. About 150 warehouse workers were involved.

ILA pickets changed tactics at another spot, on the Manhattan waterfront, where AFL men have been going through their lines. When the AFL workers arrived this morning, they found pickets carrying American flags instead of placards.

The AFL men went on to work as usual.

Faces These Factors

City, state and federal governments all are seeking to halt the port tieup, and today the ILA found itself facing these factors in its bitter battle for survival:

1. A federal grand jury probe of the waterfront dispute. Under special scrutiny is an alleged conspiracy between some employers and the ILA to keep off the piers those AFL men willing to work. Also to be checked is support given strikers by ILA tugboat crews.

2. A federal court trial in which the ILA, eight of its locals and three local officers are accused of contempt of federal court. The trial goes into its second day after ILA attorneys failed to win a de-

Killed in Action, Is Official Report

CPL. JOSEPH NORTON

Cpl. Joseph F. Norton, son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Norton, Sr., of 157 Hasbrouck avenue, was killed in action in Korea, according to a letter received by the parents today from Maj. Gen. William E. Bergin, adjutant general, Department of the Army.

No details as to date or manner of death were contained in the communication. He was reported missing in action in Korea July 8, 1953.

Expresses Sympathy

"I know the sorrow this message brings to you and it is my hope that in time the knowledge of your son's sacrifice for his country may be of sustaining comfort to you," Maj. Gen. Bergin wrote. "My heartfelt sympathy with you in the great loss you have sustained."

Young Norton, brother of Alderman George S. Norton, Jr., of the Sixth Ward, was 20 years of age when he went to Korea with the 7th Army Division in April of last year.

Played Baseball

A graduate of St. Mary's School and Kingston High School, Cpl. Norton is remembered as a crack baseball player. He played a flashy outfield and was a sharp hitter for the American Legion Juniors, the Kingston High School varsity and Chez Emile of the City League. He was also one of the original members of the softball and baseball teams known as the Newkirk Aces.

Before entering the service he was employed at Hercules Powder Plant, Port Ewen.

He completed his basic training at Camp Breckinridge, Ky., early last year.

Besides his parents and brother Cpl. Norton is survived by several nieces and nephews.

Broader Power Asked To Cut Down Tariffs

President Is Anxious to Aid Security

Eisenhower Is Backing Slash in Help for Foreign Nations and Easing Trade Laws

Washington, March 30 (AP)—President Eisenhower asked Congress today for broader power to cut tariffs as the heart of a "bold" program he said would bolster the security and economic growth of America and her allies.

In a special message dealing with the politically explosive issue of import duties and laying down the foreign economic policy of his administration, Eisenhower also:

1. Called for cutting down aid to other countries, and an end to outright grants of economic aid as soon as possible.

2. Gave assurances that increased trade in peaceful goods between the west and Iron Curtain countries "should not cause us undue concern."

3. Asked that Congress ease up on "Buy American" laws which give preference to domestic firms over foreign competitors on some government or government-financed purchases.

Important sections of the program may be heading into legislative quicksand.

Doubts on Progress

For the 5,000-word message goes pretty much down the line of recommendations of a special commission on foreign economic policy—a commission whose report was so loaded with dissents as to raise grave doubts as to how far its proposal should get in Congress.

Those same doubts still apply now that Eisenhower has accepted the suggestions in general, bundled them together into a message, and asked Congress to do something about them. Many members of the President's own party in the Senate and House adhere to the historic GOP position that tariffs should be kept relatively high to protect domestic industry against cheap imports.

The commission, headed by Clarence Randall of Chicago, president of Inland Steel Co., turned in its report Jan. 23.

The core of the report and the Eisenhower message is a recommendation for a three-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements law which expires June 12 and for expanded authority for the President to negotiate tariff adjustments with other countries on a give and take basis.

Unity in Question

Randall told reporters at a briefing session that the commission supported this part of the program 14-3. The singular thing, he said, wasn't the dissent but the degree of unity on a highly controversial subject.

But the severity and source of the objections are significant, too, they came from members of Congress who will have a vital role in deciding the fate of tariff legislation:

Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R.-N.Y.) of the House Ways and Means committee, Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R.-Pa.), a high ranking member of the committee, and Chairman Eugene D. Millikin (R.-Colo.) of the Senate Finance committee.

Draft Move Is Started For Dewey

Governor Nomination Is Set for Sept. Date; Roosevelt May Be Democrat Choice

New York, March 30 (AP)—Republicans today announced Syracuse as the site of their Sept. 21-23 convention at which they will nominate their choice for governor.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has not yet announced whether he will run again, but state GOP leaders have started what amounts to a "draft Dewey" movement.

Rep. Dean P. Taylor of Troy, Republican state chairman, announced the choice of Syracuse.

"Selection of the convention city was given immediate attention to assure that Syracuse, our first preference, would not be designated as a convention site by any other party," he said.

Democrats Pick Sept. 21

The Democratic State Convention also will start on Sept. 21, but a site has not been selected. The convention dates are set by the Legislature. The state committees choose the place.

The GOP State Committee estimated that 2,500 delegates and alternates, plus hundreds of visitors, political writers, photographers, radio and television men, and staffs of delegates will visit Syracuse for the convention.

"Historical considerations weighed heavily in the selection of Syracuse," Taylor said.

100th Anniversary

He said that, with the party observing its 100th anniversary, it was deemed fitting to hold the convention "in the region of the party's early beginnings in this state."

The first New York Republican state committee was named in Auburn in 1854. The state convention was held in Syracuse in 1855, when the Whig party, holding a simultaneous convention in Syracuse, joined the Republican party.

Four Nominations

The Syracuse convention will choose nominees for lieutenant governor, comptroller and attorney general, in addition to governor.

If the governor chooses to run again, another Dewey-Roosevelt battle is a possibility.

Dewey, defeated by President Roosevelt in a white House bid in 1944, may have as an opponent the late President's son, Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York insists he is not a candidate.

Killed by Dud

Chunchon, Korea, March 30 (AP)—Six small Korean children died today when a dud artillery shell exploded as they tried to dismantle it. The children, from 8 to 15, found the dud on a mountainside.

Spring Falls on Chicago

The calendar says it's spring. But in Chicago it looks more like the start of winter. Workmen clear the streets but they better not put their tools away because the weather bureau predicts that as much as 12 inchs of snow will fall. (NEA Telephoto).

Big C119 Strikes Roof of Officers' Home as Crippled Ship Forced Down

Ft. Bragg, N. C., March 30 (AP)—A crippled flying boxcar, carrying nine men, crashed in flames into a mess hall here today.

The air force reported five men were killed and 11 injured.

The big C119 plane, trailing smoke from its left engine, had just taken off from adjacent Pope Air Force Base for Louisville, Ky.

Crashes Mess Hall

Witnesses said the pilot apparently was trying to land on a parade field when the plane struck the top of an officers quarters, snapped off a power pole, skidded across the parade ground and crashed through the mess hall.

The mess hall burst into flames.

The 9th Air Force PIO said seven of the victims were in the mess hall when the plane crashed about 9:50 a. m.

The plane was attached to the 37th Troop Carrier Squadron at Sewart Air Force Base, Tenn. It carried an air force crew of four and five army men, some of them members of the 82nd Airborne

Former Gambler Testifies Brophy Got $100 a Week

Alfred Mones Mentioned as 'Banker' During Po'keepsie Trial of Officer

James J. Tyrell, a former gambling house operator, testified yesterday at Poughkeepsie, that he paid $100 a week over a period of three or four years to Detective Capt. George T. Brophy to keep the gambling establishment open, the Associated Press reported today.

Brophy, who has been suspended, is accused of two first degree perjury counts, and two second degree perjury counts arising out of his testimony before a Dutchess County grand jury investigating possible police ties to gambling in Poughkeepsie.

The name of Alfred Mones, of Pearl street, this city, has been mentioned during the trial, and James E. Carroll, an assistant in the Dutchess county district attorney's office, said the local man was described by witnesses as the "banker" of a dice game at 17 Catherine street, Poughkeepsie in 1950.

Designates Splits

In such "banking" operations, the witnesses said, according to Carroll, the banker received 40 per cent and the three who allegedly operated the game split 60 per cent.

The AP said Tyrell testified that Brophy would order him to close the gambling house for a time, and later notify him when he could reopen.

Four Perjury Counts

The witness testified at Brophy's trial on four perjury counts before Judge John R. Schwartz and a jury in Dutchess county court.

Rotary and Other Local People to Take Part in Rites Marking End of Service

The last west bound passenger train over the Catskill Mountain branch of the New York Central system will pull out of the Kingston station Wednesday morning at 7:30 o'clock bound for Oneonta.

At the throttle will be Engineer Frank Falatyn of Kingston, who has operated trains over the line for many years. In the cab will also be Surrogate John B. Sterley, whose father for many years was an engineer on the New York Central system operating the milk train between Kingston and Weehawken, picking up the "milk cars" which came down the then Ulster & Delaware Railroad from the dairy area between Oneonta and Kingston.

Scheduled as fireman on the final run is Frank R. Barton and W. T. Pelham will be conductor. As one of the brakemen will be M. Clearwater. An additional brakeman will also be assigned to the run because of the size of the train. Trainmaster Stephen J. Keating will also make the final trip.

The final run of passenger service on the Mountain branch will be marked with appropriate ceremonies and a great many local people will ride the last train. Members of Kingston Rotary will go in a body to Stamford where they will lunch with the Stamford

C. of C. Considers Health In Industrial Expansion

British Are Pressing For Soviet Trade

London, March 30 (AP)—The British press kept up its campaign today for relaxation of controls on trade with the Soviet bloc. Their chief target was U. S. foreign aid chief Harold Stassen, meeting here with British and French officials on the issue.

Pushing to leave for Washington tonight, Stassen saw Chancellor of the Exchequer Richard A. Butler this morning and then went into joint talks with the British and French officials.

Stassen had come here Saturday to appeal against any radical changes in the restrictions. Both the British and French governments are under considerable pressure from trade-hungry businessmen for relaxation of the bans.

Resolution Specifies All Land Within County Be Subject to Sanitary Code

Steps designed to help bring about orderly and healthful expansion in Ulster county were recommended today by the Kingston Chamber of Commerce in letters addressed to Harry Kaplan, president of the Ulster County Health Department; Robert Phinney, chairman of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors and Dr. Dudley W. Hargrave, commissioner of health for Ulster county.

This was one of two actions taken at a special meeting of the Chamber Board of Directors Monday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The meeting having been called by President N. Jansen Fowler at the request of the executive committee.

The directors will also recommend to the membership at a business meeting in April that the name be changed from Kingston Chamber of Commerce, Inc. to the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, Inc.

Ask Health Code Observance

The chamber board of directors unanimously adopted a resolution asking the Ulster County Board of Health to declare "that all land within the County of Ulster or so much thereof as the commissioner of health may deem feasible and expedient, be subject to the provisions of Article IV, Section 1, of the Sanitary Code of the Ulster County Health District."

Such action on the part of the board of health would require a permit from the commissioner of health before constructing a sew-

Details of Ulster Vaccine Trials To Be Planned on Thursday

Administrative details for the polio vaccine trials in Ulster county will be worked out at a meeting of physicians, school and health department personnel at Kingston High School on Thursday evening, Dr. Dudley W. Hargrave, county health commissioner, announced today.

The trial involves the inoculation of first, second and third grade pupils in all Ulster county schools, public, private and parochial.

Ulster is one of 20 New York state counties selected for the trials, which will take place this spring and summer.

Dr. Hargrave has invited physicians, teachers of the first three grades, the school superintendents, nurses, and representatives of Ulster County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to attend the meeting. Mayor Frederick H. Stang of Kingston, and representatives of the state Department of Health may also attend, he said.

Personnel of the Ulster County Department of Health's public health nursing, sanitation and clerical divisions will also be in attendance.

Details to be worked out include the distribution of forms for the necessary parents' permission, timing of the inoculations, record keeping and the like.

One-half of the children will receive injections of the new polio vaccine, and the other half will receive a harmless "control" substance, in the test to determine the effectiveness of the vaccine which authorities hope will be the key to the eventual stamping out of polio.

No one taking part in the trials, not even the doctors giving the vaccine, will know which children receive the vaccine and which the control substance.

Half Payment of City's Share of County Taxes

Mayor Frederick H. Stang today signed a check for $245,556.75 forwarded from the county.

Of the total, $238,554.45 represents the first half payment of the city's share of county taxes, and the other $7,002.29 is the city's total share of stenographers' and Supreme Court expenses.

Teen-Agers Admit Breaking Into Two Places in County

14-Year-Olds Force Way Into Slaughter House; Brothers Steal Arborio Tools

Two cases of juvenile delinquency were reported today by Sheriff Cluett Schantz.

According to the sheriff, two 14-year-old boys admitted breaking into the former Parnett slaughter house on Route 209 between Kingston and Hurley and causing an estimated $250 worth of damage. Two other boys, one 14 and the other 15, allegedly stole tools belonging to the contractor on the state Thruway project in the Ardonia area.

The caretaker at the slaughter house, which is not in use but is owned by the L. & L. Packing Company of Buffalo, reported on March 21 that the place had been broken into. Desk drawers had been taken out, emptied and placed upside down on the floor and jumped on, causing them to break, he said. A supply closet was ransacked and electric light bulbs smashed against the wall, telephones were ripped from the

Tree Falls Damaging St. James Parsonage

A tree, which fell between the Huntington Hotel on Pearl street and the parsonage of St. James Methodist Church, broke windows, damaged the trim on the latter and its porch roof last night.

Police headquarters was notified at 8:56 p. m., and Officers William Slover and Everett Emmick reported they had notified Mrs. Millard Everett, wife of the church's sexton, and the public works department so that protection and lights could be placed near the part which fell on the sidewalk.

Fighting Infantile Paralysis

Dr. Jonas E. Salk, University of Pittsburgh bacteriologist, whose polio vaccine will get a nation-wide test in April, supervises a laboratory process on the vaccine. Mrs. Ethel Bailey, research assistant in bacteriology, draws fluid from culture tubes. In the upcoming field tests, between 500,000 and a million children will get trial shots of the vaccine. At Summer's end it can be learned whether the vaccine will end the dreaded polio. (AP Wirephoto).

New Vaccine May Wipe Out Polio in Next Six Months

EDITOR'S NOTE—Starting about April 12 health officials across the nation begin a historic trial: Field tests of the polio vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of Pittsburgh. If the vaccine is effective, the crippling career of paralytic poliomyelitis may be ended. This is the first of three articles on what parents everywhere hope may prove man's mastery over the frightening disease.

BY ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

New York, March 30 (AP)—The next six months can spell the absolute end of polio, if all goes well.

The weapon is a polio vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk and associates of the University of Pittsburgh.

By present scientific evidence, it should protect children against the vicious polio virus. There is even reason to believe that a few shots of the vaccine can give lifetime protection.

At the moment, the vaccine is like a new type of airplane. The engineers are pretty sure it will fly and perform as expected. But the acid test is to fly it.

So an army of half a million to a million little children will step forward soon to take trial shots of the vaccine. After summer's end it can be learned whether the vaccine really defends them against polio and paralysis.

If the vaccine passes this critical test, then all the nation's 46 million children could start getting the vaccine next year. In a few years, no one would need be vulnerable to polio.

All this is just a promise. But it is based upon all the scientific facts known now about polio. This vaccine could fail. If it does, there are prospects for still other vaccines, perhaps better ones.

The vaccine story is simple, in retrospect—just as the solution of a detective mystery is simple, in retrospect.

Dr. Salk's vaccine is made of

New Farm Price System Is Unveiled

Washington, March 30 (AP)—A new government price support system for dairy products—apparently aimed at softening the reduction ordered by Secretary of Agriculture Benson—was unveiled today by Sens. Aiken (R.-Vt.) and Anderson (D.-N. M.).

Aiken is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and Anderson is a former secretary of agriculture. In an interview, Aiken said they had not cleared their proposals with Benson or the administration, but would introduce them today in the Senate.

Aiken conceded that the proposals if adopted should counter much of the criticism that has arisen in dairy areas and Congress because Benson lowered government dairy price supports from 90 to 75 per cent of parity, effective at midnight Wednesday.

"This would assure dairy producers about 80 per cent of parity," Aiken said. "It should provide a long-range stability for all parts of the industry, especially farmers and producers."

The last west bound passenger train over the Catskill Mountain branch of the New York Central system will pull out of the Kingston station Wednesday morning at 7:30 o'clock bound for Oneonta.

At the throttle will be Engineer Frank Falatyn of Kingston, who has operated trains over the line for many years. In the cab will also be Surrogate John B. Sterley, whose father for many years was an engineer on the New York Central system operating the milk train between Kingston and Weehawken, picking up the "milk cars" which came down the then Ulster & Delaware Railroad from the dairy area between Oneonta and Kingston.

Scheduled as fireman on the final run is Frank R. Barton and W. T. Pelham will be conductor. As one of the brakemen will be M. Clearwater. An additional brakeman will also be assigned to the run because of the size of the train. Trainmaster Stephen J. Keating will also make the final trip.

The final run of passenger service on the Mountain branch will be marked with appropriate ceremonies and a great many local people will ride the last train. Members of Kingston Rotary will go in a body to Stamford where they will lunch with the Stamford

C. of C. Considers Health In Industrial Expansion

British Are Pressing For Soviet Trade

London, March 30 (AP)—The British press kept up its campaign today for relaxation of controls on trade with the Soviet bloc. Their chief target was U. S. foreign aid chief Harold Stassen, meeting here with British and French officials on the issue.

Pushing to leave for Washington tonight, Stassen saw Chancellor of the Exchequer Richard A. Butler this morning and then went into joint talks with the British and French officials.

Stassen had come here Saturday to appeal against any radical changes in the restrictions. Both the British and French governments are under considerable pressure from trade-hungry businessmen for relaxation of the bans.

Resolution Specifies All Land Within County Be Subject to Sanitary Code

Steps designed to help bring about orderly and healthful expansion in Ulster county were recommended today by the Kingston Chamber of Commerce in letters addressed to Harry Kaplan, president of the Ulster County Health Department; Robert Phinney, chairman of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors and Dr. Dudley W. Hargrave, commissioner of health for Ulster county.

This was one of two actions taken at a special meeting of the Chamber Board of Directors Monday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The meeting having been called by President N. Jansen Fowler at the request of the executive committee.

The directors will also recommend to the membership at a business meeting in April that the name be changed from Kingston Chamber of Commerce, Inc. to the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, Inc.

Ask Health Code Observance

The chamber board of directors unanimously adopted a resolution asking the Ulster County Board of Health to declare "that all land within the County of Ulster or so much thereof as the commissioner of health may deem feasible and expedient, be subject to the provisions of Article IV, Section 1, of the Sanitary Code of the Ulster County Health District."

Such action on the part of the board of health would require a permit from the commissioner of health before constructing a sew-

Teen-Agers Admit Breaking Into Two Places in County

14-Year-Olds Force Way Into Slaughter House; Brothers Steal Arborio Tools

Two cases of juvenile delinquency were reported today by Sheriff Cluett Schantz.

According to the sheriff, two 14-year-old boys admitted breaking into the former Parnett slaughter house on Route 209 between Kingston and Hurley and causing an estimated $250 worth of damage. Two other boys, one 14 and the other 15, allegedly stole tools belonging to the contractor on the state Thruway project in the Ardonia area.

The caretaker at the slaughter house, which is not in use but is owned by the L. & L. Packing Company of Buffalo, reported on March 21 that the place had been broken into. Desk drawers had been taken out, emptied and placed upside down on the floor and jumped on, causing them to break, he said. A supply closet was ransacked and electric light bulbs smashed against the wall, telephones were ripped from the

A tree, which fell between the Huntington Hotel on Pearl street and the parsonage of St. James Methodist Church, broke windows, damaged the trim on the latter and its porch roof last night.

Police headquarters was notified at 8:56 p. m., and Officers William Slover and Everett Emmick reported they had notified Mrs. Millard Everett, wife of the church's sexton, and the public works department so that protection and lights could be placed near the part which fell on the sidewalk.

Details of Ulster Vaccine Trials To Be Planned on Thursday

Administrative details for the polio vaccine trials in Ulster county will be worked out at a meeting of physicians, school and health department personnel at Kingston High School on Thursday evening, Dr. Dudley W. Hargrave, county health commissioner, announced today.

The trial involves the inoculation of first, second and third grade pupils in all Ulster county schools, public, private and parochial.

Ulster is one of 20 New York state counties selected for the trials, which will take place this spring and summer.

Dr. Hargrave has invited physicians, teachers of the first three grades, the school superintendents, nurses, and representatives of Ulster County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to attend the meeting. Mayor Frederick H. Stang of Kingston, and representatives of the state Department of Health may also attend, he said.

Personnel of the Ulster County Department of Health's public health nursing, sanitation and clerical divisions will also be in attendance.

Details to be worked out include the distribution of forms for the necessary parents' permission, timing of the inoculations, record keeping and the like.

One-half of the children will receive injections of the new polio vaccine, and the other half will receive a harmless "control" substance, in the test to determine the effectiveness of the vaccine which authorities hope will be the key to the eventual stamping out of polio.

No one taking part in the trials, not even the doctors giving the vaccine, will know which children receive the vaccine and which the control substance.

Fighting Infantile Paralysis

Dr. Jonas E. Salk, University of Pittsburgh bacteriologist, whose polio vaccine will get a nation-wide test in April, supervises a laboratory process on the vaccine. Mrs. Ethel Bailey, research assistant in bacteriology, draws fluid from culture tubes. In the upcoming field tests, between 500,000 and a million children will get trial shots of the vaccine. At Summer's end it can be learned whether the vaccine will end the dreaded polio. (AP Wirephoto).

Half Payment of City's Share of County Taxes

Mayor Frederick H. Stang today signed a check for $245,556.75 forwarded from the county.

Of the total, $238,554.45 represents the first half payment of the city's share of county taxes, and the other $7,002.29 is the city's total share of stenographers' and Supreme Court expenses.

New Vaccine May Wipe Out Polio in Next Six Months

EDITOR'S NOTE—Starting about April 12 health officials across the nation begin a historic trial: Field tests of the polio vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of Pittsburgh. If the vaccine is effective, the crippling career of paralytic poliomyelitis may be ended. This is the first of three articles on what parents everywhere hope may prove man's mastery over the frightening disease.

BY ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

New York, March 30 (AP)—The next six months can spell the absolute end of polio, if all goes well.

The weapon is a polio vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk and associates of the University of Pittsburgh.

By present scientific evidence, it should protect children against the vicious polio virus. There is even reason to believe that a few shots of the vaccine can give lifetime protection.

At the moment, the vaccine is like a new type of airplane. The engineers are pretty sure it will fly and perform as expected. But the acid test is to fly it.

So an army of half a million to a million little children will step forward soon to take trial shots of the vaccine. After summer's end it can be learned whether the vaccine really defends them against polio and paralysis.

If the vaccine passes this critical test, then all the nation's 46 million children could start getting the vaccine next year. In a few years, no one would need be vulnerable to polio.

All this is just a promise. But it is based upon all the scientific facts known now about polio. This vaccine could fail. If it does, there are prospects for still other vaccines, perhaps better ones.

The vaccine story is simple, in retrospect—just as the solution of a detective mystery is simple, in retrospect.

New Farm Price System Is Unveiled

Washington, March 30 (AP)—A new government price support system for dairy products—apparently aimed at softening the reduction ordered by Secretary of Agriculture Benson—was unveiled today by Sens. Aiken (R.-Vt.) and Anderson (D.-N. M.).

Aiken is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee and Anderson is a former secretary of agriculture. In an interview, Aiken said they had not cleared their proposals with Benson or the administration, but would introduce them today in the Senate.

Aiken conceded that the proposals if adopted should counter much of the criticism that has arisen in dairy areas and Congress because Benson lowered government dairy price supports from 90 to 75 per cent of parity, effective at midnight Wednesday.

"This would assure dairy producers about 80 per cent of parity," Aiken said. "It should provide a long-range stability for all parts of the industry, especially farmers and producers."

Dr. Salk Confident About Vaccine After Long Study

Pittsburgh, March 30 (AP) — A family friend tells this story about Dr. Jonas E. Salk:

"Once he saw me sewing a dress and wanted to know every step that went into it, another time, he admired a dessert and we had to have a scientific discussion of that. Afterward, he told us why a cake is a cake, chemically.

"I think it makes him uneasy not to understand something going on around him."

Another friend, a psychiatrist, explained this way:

"He is one of the clearest, most deliberate thinkers I've ever known. He has great emotional stability. You can bet he won't push his work one second faster than it is absolutely safe to do."

A relative recalls: "Even as a kid, when Jonas said something, you could put it in the bank."

No. 1 Medical Figure

The man they're talking about is the nation's No. 1 medical figure of the moment — the man whose polio vaccine will be given to from half a million to a million youngsters this year, in the hope it will bring a permanent cure to one of history's most dread diseases.

If there is a typical researcher, Salk is that man. Only 39, he has been tracking down flu and polio virus and hunting vaccines since before his graduation from medical school in 1939. The hours have been long, sometimes 18 hours a day six days a week, with only Sundays free for his wife and three sons. Money for research wasn't always plentiful. But in his quiet, methodical, careful way he kept going until, almost two years ago, he came up with a vaccine he thought would work on humans.

Then began the first cautious tests. As they showed signs of success — immunization without harm to the patients—they were gradually expanded Now he is ready for mass inoculations over most of the country.

Not Without Emotion

Deliberate as he is, he is not without emotion. Back in the days before he felt he was ready for mass tests, his two sons were among those getting the vaccines.

"When you inoculate children with a polio vaccine," he said then, "you don't sleep well for two or three weeks."

Now he has full confidence in his method.

"I couldn't do it," he says, "unless I was more critical of myself than others are of me. It is a courage based on confidence, not daring, and it is confidence based on experience."

Salary Schedule

Roland A. Riegel, supervising principal of the Kerhonkson Public Schools has released the new salary schedule adopted March 19 by the local board of education. The former state mandated minimum salary scale of $2,500-$4,600 will be superseded by a 16-step schedule offering $3,000-$5,100 on the bachelor's level, $200 extra for a master's degree.

Provision has been made for experienced teachers to reach the step commensurate with their experience more quickly. Veterans also will benefit by the acceptance of up to three years of service to be considered as years of experience when they have attained the 13th step. Formerly unused sick leave could be accumulated only 30 days, at the rate of 10 days per year; this level has been increased to 60. In order to encourage continued education on the part of the teachers, an allowance will be made for graduate studies. The minimum salary adjustment for the coming school year, 1954-55, will amount to $450 with $500 as the average raise.

This program is being partially financed by state means from larger average daily attendance plus Gov. Dewey's emergency state aid bill which will yield an extra $13 per average daily attendance per pupil.

Riegel also indicated that when the faculty was presented with the new schedule the latter expressed their approval of the action taken by the board of education.

The salary schedule was revised upward in view of the desire of the board to bring teachers' pay in line with salary scales in other areas of the state and to promote and maintain the high calibre of the present staff and to further interest capable, young people in entering the profession.

Magician to Appear

Dunworth, the Magician, will be the featured guest at the April 7 meeting of the Kerhonkson PTA. The well-known performer who has appeared all over this area will amuse and dazzle the audience with his varied offerings of modern magic and mental tricks. Because of the nature of the program, the entire community is especially invited to come and bring children. A large crowd is expected to witness the evening's entertainment. The executive committee strongly urges parents to keep close supervision over their children because of anticipated crowds.

The business portion of the meeting will include the election of next year's officers to be chosen from a slate selected by the nominating committee: Mrs. Mathilda Abrahams, Mrs. Olive Eck, Mrs. Fred Sherman, Harrison Burger and Roaland A. Riegel.

As usual there will be an opportunity for parents to confer with the staff in their rooms from 7:45-8:15 before the meeting.

Wintry Weather Hits Wide Areas

(By The Associated Press)

Wintry weather, with snow, sleet and cold, hit wide areas from the Rockies to New England today.

The fast-moving early spring snow storm which struck the midwest yesterday increased in intensity as it spread northeastward through the St. Lawrence Valley and into New England.

The falls in the midwest ranged from 3 to 8 inches but there were 16 inches in Rochester, N. Y., and 13 inches in Washington, N. H.

At least 16 persons lost their lives from causes attributed to the storm. They included eight in western New York state, five in Toledo, Ohio, and three in Iowa.

The cold Canadian air which moved into the north central region yesterday spread eastward over most of New England and extended southwestward to central Texas and westward to the plateau region. More cold was in prospect for at least 24 hours for most of the mid-continent and the northeastern section of the country.

Rain, Sleet in Ohio

Freezing rain, sleet and snow were reported early today in sections of the upper Ohio river valley, the lowest Great Lakes region and New England. The snowfall at Buffalo, N. Y., measured 13 inches; there were 8 inches on the ground at Jackson and Battle Creek, Mich., and about the same amount in Chicago.

Traffic was slowed by the heavy wet snow in many areas and driving was hazardous in many sections hit by freezing rain storms.

Skies were generally cloudy over the nation except for clear weather over the northern tier of states from Washington eastward to Michigan.

Mild weather prevailed south and east of the cold belt, with moist tropical air covering the southeastern part of the country.

Early today it was 2 below at Butte, Mont., and 72 above at San Antonio, Texas. Some other early morning readings included Burlington, Vt., 18; New York city 44; Miami 74; Fort Worth 49; Omaha 20; International Falls, Minn., 9; Seattle 39; Los Angeles 52; Chicago 20.

Search for Shell

New York, March 30 (AP)—Police and soldiers continued to search the Cunningham Park section of Queens today for a 30-pound anti-aircraft shell loaded with dangerous explosives. The shell was one of three taken from a nearby anti-aircraft installation. The theft was discovered last Saturday when a boy scout found two of the shells. A check showed a third still missing. The shells could be set off by a slight jar, the army said. They are about three inches in diameter and more than a yard long.

Explanation Sought

Paris, March 30 (AP)—France's No. 1 soldier, outspoken Marshal Alphonse Juin, was in hot water with the government today. Premier Joseph Laniel summoned him to explain his latest remarks about the European Defense Community (EDC). Juin said in a speech to French Army reserve officers at Auxerre Saturday he thought a "substitute solution" should be found for the EDC. Juin is commander-in-chief of NATO forces in central Europe and presumably the man who will command the proposed six-nation EDC army, designed to bring German troops into the western defense setup.

New Vaccine May Wipe Out Polio dead virus, using all three types of virus which can cause human paralysis.

It is safe, because dead virus cannot cause polio. But the dead virus can still create defenses against live, dangerous virus.

The key question is, is the defense obtained this way really good enough?

The answer can only be found by giving the vaccine to hundreds of thousands of children, before the polio season begins. Local health authorities and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis are conducting these field trials.

This summer many of these vaccinated children, along with unvaccinated youngsters, will be invaded by polio virus in natural exposure or infection.

Do most—or all—the vaccinated children escape paralysis, as compared with the non-vaccinated?

If the answer is yes, the vaccine works and can abolish polio. If it doesn't, the search must start afresh.

The reason for believing the vaccine will work is easy—antibodies.

Antibodies are nature's policemen. They are tiny protein particles, circulating in the blood, which can combine with and disarm an invading germ or virus.

When some germ attacks you, your body starts making antibodies against it. If you make enough antibodies soon enough, you win the battle. If you don't, you become ill and sometimes die.

Once you have made antibodies, you usually keep them. You have your antibody factories all set up, ready to go to work at a moment's notice. The antibodies against one kind of germ or virus work only against that specific disease agent.

It is now known that most of us by age 15 already have antibodies against one, two, or all three separate types of virus which can cause paralytic polio. We made them sometime in the past when virus invaded us. Most of us never knew we had the virus. Once you make antibodies against a virus, you apparently are protected for life against that type of virus.

The purpose of a vaccine is to make you set up antibody factories by giving you dead or safe virus.

Dr. Salk has been testing his vaccine on children for a year and a half.

Of nearly 5,000 children vaccinated so far, not one has become ill with any fever from the vaccine, or even had soreness in the arm receiving the shots.

Blood tests show the vaccinations can create antibodies against all three types of virus, even in children who had no polio antibodies at all before getting the vaccine.

They kept these antibodies, in what seem to be protective amounts, for at least seven months. That's the length of one polio season.

But Dr. Salk has just made a heartening new find.

It seems that the first one or two shots of vaccine alter the body's antibody mechanism, make it more sensitive. When the third or booster shot of vaccine is given sometime later, antibody production soars sky-high. Some children even got more antibodies than they show after natural infection with polio.

And Dr. Salk has a little evidence that natural exposure to polio after one or two shots of vaccine may act like a booster shot of vaccine. The sensitized antibody mechanism may be triggered into quick, high production of antibodies against the virus which is making an invasion.

These are reasons for thinking that a few shots of vaccine can give life-long protection. Whenever live virus came along, the antibody policemen would appear in heavy force.

Children in the test are getting two shots of vaccine spaced a week apart, with the booster shot four weeks later. Actually there may be a better timing or spacing for the booster shot to create the most protection, and this question is being studied. It's also possible that only one initial or sensitizing shot is needed, followed by one booster later.

Well, you may ask, if the vaccine creates antibodies, why is there any doubt that it won't protect the children?

There are two questions. One is whether there are enough antibodies from the vaccine.

The other is whether the virus can attack nerves without going through the bloodstream where the antibodies are standing guard.

The evidence is that most of us get polio because the virus enters the intestinal tract, then gets into the bloodstream, and then moves on to attack the nerves.

But there is evidence that sometimes it can by-pass the bloodstream, thus escaping attack by the antibodies.

The tests on thousands of children will help show how often the virus may attack in this manner rather than through the bloodstream.

But there is a hopeful fact here, too. It is that spaced shots of vaccine can create so many antibodies that some "spill over" from the bloodstream into peripheral nerves. They would thus be standing guard along nerve pathways against virus which did by-pass the bloodstream.

(Tomorrow: How the vaccine is made, how the tests are being run.)

Santiago, Chile, March 30 (AP)—Chilean scientists are slowly mummifying the 400-year-old body of an Indian prince found recently in an Andean ice cave. Uniform Jury Bill, Others Signed by Governor Dewey

Albany, March 30 (AP) — Gov. Dewey today signed bills creating a uniform jury system for upstate counties and appropriating $27,800,000 for the state's supplemental budget.

The jury bill authorizes a centralized system in the 57 counties outside New York city, which already has a uniform set-up. It creates in each county the Office of Commissioners of Jurors, to be supervised by justices of the Appellate Division of the state Supreme Court.

The supplemental budget bill raises the overall appropriations for the fiscal year beginning April 1 to a record high of $1,141,000,000. It is expected that appropriations by special bills awaiting the governor's signature will add another $3 million to the figure.

One of those bills—among the 20 measures signed by Dewey today—authorized a $505,000 appropriation for 20 joint legislative committees.

Other Measures

Other successful legislation included measures that:

Changed the proportion of allocations from the state's general fund so that 58.05 per cent may be used for assistance to localities and 41.95 for state purposes. The old ratio was 57.62 local and 42.38 state.

Extended the temporary state commission to study highway financing to March 31, 1955, and appropriated $20,000 in operating funds.

Granted the Public Service Commission Authority to decide whether utility companies or municipalities should pass along to consumers refunds paid them by interstate gas and electric producers.

The uniform jury measure, long sought by Dewey, repeals 164 state laws governing the selection of jurors upstate. It substitutes a new code to be administered by a county jury board, consisting of a county judge, a Supreme Court justice and a member of the county board of supervisors.

Major Accomplishment

Dewey, in a memorandum accompaning the signed bill, termed the measure "one of the signal accomplishments of the 1954 legislative session."

The governor said the legislation would assure a continuing supply of venireman for all courts, provide more competent juries and make jury service more attractive.

The measure was sponsored by Sen. Pliny Williamson, Scarsdale Republican.

The supplemental budget bill includes 13 million dollars for salary increases for state employes. Another $751,000 is tabbed for pay boosts for legislative employes, and $520,000 goes to raise the salaries of the legislators themselves from $5,000 to $7,500, effective next year.

In the local assistance section, the largest item is a 10-million-dollar appropriation for emergency state aid to education, the first school-year appropriation of a 25-million-dollar program recommended by Dewey.

Bills for More Money

The governor yesterday signed bills giving New York city an additional 50 million dollars a year in real estate taxing power and authorizing localities to impose a 15 per cent tax on admission to harness and flat racing track clubhouses.

Dewey said the measures, coupled with other state aid to New York city, meant the metropolis was receiving "fiscal treatment more generous than ever before afforded by any state administration."

The real estate tax bill, together with a change in the city's equalization rates for real property assessments, will guarantee the city an additional 50-million-dollars in revenue for the next four years.

Means $300,000

Dewey estimated that the clubhouse tax bill would mean another $300,000 annually to the city. Previously localities could tax only general admissions.

Other bills signed today:

Gave the PSC power to grant temporary licenses for the operation of bus lines without a formal hearing "when necessary to provide service for which there is an immediate or urgent need."

Authorized the Department of Public Works to enter private property to determine whether trees along the road were obstructing traffic. It reduced allowable claims by property owners, for damage resulting from the entrance or work, from $500 to $350.

Lost It on Horses

New York, March 30 (AP) — A state hospital accountant embezzled $267,000 over the past five years claims he had bad luck and lost it all on horse race bets, the district attorney's office reported today. Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan's office said the thefts were admitted by Alexander P. Maran, 57, of Brooklyn. Maran, an accountant at Manhattan State Hospital on Wards Island in the East river, was booked on a charge of grand larceny. Detectives said Maran took $247,000 in hospital funds and $20,000 from the hospital store.

East Germany Demand

Berlin, March 30 (AP) — Walter Ulbricht, strong man secretary of East Germany's ruling Communist party, demanded today that the Big Three western powers withdraw their military missions from the East German Republic. Ulbricht told the opening session of his Socialist Unity party's first convention in four years that maintenance of western military missions in the Soviet zone was incompatible with the sovereignty the Russians proclaimed last week for East Germany.

Why most Americans stand straighter today

Equitable's President tells a story of self-reliance and how it grows as insurance grows

Nearly 90,000,000 Americans are now protected by life insurance...

A tremendous figure?

Yes. But looking at it another way it is pretty strong evidence that there's a whale of a lot of self-reliance in the make-up of the average American.

He's determined to stand on his own two feet ...to face the future with confidence.

And he's learned that one of the best ways to do it is through insurance.

We are pleased to have helped so many of these Americans stand just a little bit straighter.

The Equitable Society today helps protect over 8,000,000 people—a record number!

To see what lies behind their self-reliance, look at the figures in The Society's Annual Statement shown here.*

While we are the fifth largest corporation in the United States, we're not in business just to publish big figures.

We are in business to help more Americans help themselves to individual security and independence.

To this end we are continually developing new kinds of insurance...using the tool of intensive research to create modern and forward-looking policies.

Recently, for example, we pioneered a new Major Medical Expense Policy. Now we have revised and liberalized it still further. This policy helps protect families against financial disaster resulting from costly or prolonged illness. Its coverage is broadened...its cost is reasonable.

We believe this policy clearly demonstrates how independent citizens, working through a mutual company, can build for themselves the kind of insurance program Americans need.

Paris, March 30 (AP)—France's No. 1 soldier, outspoken Marshal Alphonse Juin, was in hot water with the government today. DELAY OF EDC RATIFICATION

One watches, with somewhat diminishing hope, for signs of a healthier political outlook in France. The recent breakdown of talks with Western Germany over the disputed Saar region shows again that the French are avoiding decision on the crucial issues of Europe.

The French have told the Germans and others that settlement of the Saar matter is a necessary prelude to any action by France on the European Army pact.

To achieve a solution, the Bonn government has made important concessions. But the French have not matched them. In fact, they seem to have done nothing at all but inspire delay.

The industrial Sarr, a tiny pocket of land on the German-French border, belonged to Germany until the close of World War II. Now it enjoys political autonomy but is under French economic control. The French have no wish to lose the hold they have on the area's resources.

The Germans, feeling a natural desire to regain any patch of German soil, have nevertheless proposed that the Saar be Europeanized—placed under the economic and political control of a west European federation.

This presumably would still give the French reasonable access to Saar resources, but the proposal does not appear to satisfy them.

Negotiation inescapably means yielding, usually by both sides. The French are not negotiating seriously about the Saar.

Furthermore, they have inspired postponement of the scheduled March 30 meeting at Brussels between the six nations which would comprise the elements of a European political federation.

Since the Germans want the Saar Europeanized, they believe early establishment of such a federation is imperative.

An outsider looking at this performance is inclined to conclude that if the Saar issue did not exist the French would project another as an obstacle to action on EDC.

Not only Bonn but The Netherlands and Belgium have virtually finished ratifying EDC. Of the remaining three signatories, Luxembourg is no problem, and Italy will undoubtedly follow France's lead. So, as it has always been, it is still up to France.

The world is waiting for her to join the community of free nations seriously interested in preserving their freedom.

More than one person, we feel, reaches the age of discretion long before he knows what it is.

MARX WAS WRONG

For years Marxists have bided their time, cherishing the thought that sooner or later a major depression would deliver the capitalist countries into their hands. A recent issue of U. S. News and World Report discusses a depression which is currently causing trouble behind the Iron Curtain—a depression far more serious than any yet experienced in the capitalist countries.

The article considers all the satellite countries and shows that in most of them, including countries like Czechoslovakia and Hungary which once enjoyed relatively high standards of living, food shortages have developed, production has slowed down and conditions are considered serious.

Aggravating the depression in the Communist countries is the dissatisfaction of the workers with the Red regime. The efforts of the leaders to boost production are met with apathy by the workers who have learned that they will be poorly rewarded in any case.

Our free enterprise system has faults and it is our job to correct those faults and work toward a continually better standard of living for more and more people. But we have the framework within which such improvements can be made. More and more it becomes apparent that the Marxist idea that capitalism will topple because of depression is mere wishful thinking on the part of the Communists. At the same time it becomes clear that the idea that controlled production can produce a Utopia is merely a tool ambitious men have used to enslave other men.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE MORAL SWITCH

Apparently these days, when there is no other explanation for ordinary friendships, for loyalties between men and women, when there is no other explanation for the simple forms of social life, we all go Freudian and hurl accusations of sex perversion and confusion. Let no man cast the first stone on this particular subject; we have all been guilty of this.

Lady Astor turned on me the other day, demanding whether there was nothing else to talk about, to write about, to make movies about, but distortions of sex relationships. The answer to that question is none too easy because obviously we are suffering from a cheapening of morals and manners, from frankness run riot, from language reduced to ugly simplicity. Even the word, romance, so beautiful in all tongues, has fallen from its lofty heights of emotional living, of joys and sighs and tears to a euphemism for experiments in sex relationship prior to marriage.

The homosexual vogue is probably exaggerated all out of proportion, there being no acceptable statistics on the subject in this or any other country. The two Kinsey reports cannot be accepted as informative; they are speculative treatises based on obviously inadequate data. In the six decades that I have traversed this vale of chaotic human relationships, I have personally known only three sex deviates, two males and one female, and most unhappy people they were. There may have been more, but I would not know. Apparently most such persons do not wear their weaknesses on their shirt sleeves any more than the rest of us do. The sex deviate who is arrested by the police is more rare than the person arrested for sundry crimes against property.

I am certain that in the places I visit for an evening snack I have encountered many of the celebrities whose names were blazoned in the Jelke Case, but I would not know how to recognize them. They dress as well and speak as well as their betters. In my childhood and youth, it was different: bad girls advertised themselves as such, hoping to do better business that way. Younger men tell me that it is all different now; that you never can tell.

The revolt against mid-Victorian manners seemed interesting and even important in the second decade of the Twentieth Century and apparently reached a state of anarchy during the Prohibition years, but usually the pendulum swings back to a sane approach to manners which are an outward manifestation of morals. Frustrated and frightened people are apparently impelled to exhibit themselves to prove that they exist; the adjusted, peaceful soul is willing to conform to the ways of his society lest extraordinary personal conduct interfere with the calmness of his existence. Life within the family requires no exhibitionism if the family unit is happy.

The newer term, sex deviate, has had too ready an acceptance as though it were a usual rather than an extraordinary condition among human beings. Men who advertise themselves as women and who achieve a notoriety because of their peculiarities add little to our knowledge or entertainment. Curiosity once satisfied, the exhibitionism palls and somehow one wants to cleanse himself. When manners go, it is not that we are freer; it is rather that we do not know what to do and how to behave. The disorders, in time, extend themselves to the whole of society and we become as confused in politics and economics as in our personal behavior. When any society is disorderly in its conduct, it is not likely that the thinking of the period will be logical.

The current overemphasis upon sex exhibitionism, particularly in its less usual manifestations, the diversion from family life to chaotic individualists, the insistence upon telling all in its grotesqueness has ceased to be interesting or amusing. The elevation of the sex deviate to a class and the use of slurs on character for political purpose have reached an extremity of ugliness that ought no longer be condoned by public opinion. Let's clean it up!

On the upward march, most civilizations tend to be puritanical; during what might be called a mature period in a civilization, when wealth and luxury are plentifully distributed, manners become loose and morals disappear from family life. This is decay and can only lead to the death of a people.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

OLD AGE AND ITS AILMENTS

So many people are now living to old age that there is more discussion about high blood presure, skin disease, loss of hearing, than when we did not live so long. Thus, in a booklet on old age, Dr. R. King Brown, Medical Editor of the British Journal of Physical Medicine, introduces his subject as follows:

"What is old age which Cicero states that all men aspire to but then complain of when it is attained? This question cannot be answered by counting the years one has lived because one man is old at 55 while another is young in the 70s?

Physicians measure age by the blood vessels. I remember, as a boy, a physician stating that my mother was 10 years younger than a sister 10 years younger because of the condition of her blood vessels.

As many have to meet old age, Dr. Brown states that the happiness or unhappiness of old age depends largely on how we have prepared for it and on the state of our health when we have reached it. If we are healthy and decay gradually and naturally, old age may be a very happy period. But even with many disabilities, much can be done to render the years of old age tolerable. By suitable measures, many diseases of old age may be cured or at least relieved and, combined with self-discipline in the matter of physical and mental exercise, will accomplish wonders and produce an optimism which will relieve the sufferer in his remaining years.

The first and one of the commonest of disabilities of old age is eye trouble. This is unfortunate for one of the most important recreations of old age is reading. Eye trouble comes on comparatively early and one cannot emphasize too much the importance of looking after the eyes. Reading cannot be enjoyed, as we grow older, without suitable aids.

We also read about the enlarged prostate gland which is popularly called old men's disease. An enlarged prostate gland may often be malignent (cancer), yet timely treatment for enlarged prostate may save the elderly individual from much suffering.

One of the annoying and often serious ailment in the mind of the patient is any chronic skin disease as it stands out for everybody to see and perhaps make inquiries about. In cases of skin disease among the elderly, our skin specialtists warn that in chronic cases more harm is done by overtreatment than by lack of treatment.

Our Motto---Anything Can Happen and Probably Will

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA) — Republican officials are greatly encouraged by preliminary figures on business activity for first quarter of 1954. They indicate that the recession, inventory readjustment, winter slump, transition to a peacetime economy—or whatever you want to call it—may not be nearly as serious as predicted and feared by some economists.

The first quarter doesn't end till March 31, of course. Final figures on it may not be available for another month. But the preliminary figures compiled for the Treasury Department show these trends, according to Undersecretary Marion B. Folsom:

Industrial production index is down 8 per cent—from 134 to 124. Nonagricultural employment is down 1.8 per cent—55.4 million to around 54.3 million. These are the admittedly bad spots.

The good spots are: Gross national product down only an estimated 1 per cent from last year's annual rate of $363.9 billion for the first quarter. And personal income is expected to be about the same as last year. For first quarter 1953 the annual rate was $263 billion.

"If I was a smart man, I don't think I'd be here today," said Defense Secretary C. E. Wilson in opening a recent press conference.

On that particular day, the feud between the Army and Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy was red hot. New developments were breaking fast on more American aid for the hard-pressed Viet Namese and French forces in Indo-China. The administration's "new look" defense policies for meeting threats of Communist aggression were on the Washington griddle. (Plus the usual daily crises.)

"I always want to be frank with you," Secretary Wilson told the reporters, "but today you can ask me a lot of questions which I can't answer. So go ahead and see how close you can get."

Rep. William Arthur Winstead, (D., Miss.), has been hearin' from the hills on his resolution to commemorate May 26 as "National Hillbilly Day."

Addicts of hillbilly music, however, seem to have gone a bit high-hat instead of just wide-brimmed-hat here of late.

Feeling that they are expressing the most popular musical art form in America, they resent the use of the word "hillbilly" as applied to their music. They want it known as "country music" instead. An appeal has been made that Winstead amend his resolution to read "National Country Music Day," instead of "Hillbilly Day."

"Pickin' and Singin' News," the national house organ for the hillbilly—pardon—country music industry, published in Nashville, has an open-letter-to-Congress editorial endorsing the amendment.

Senator Clinton P. Anderson, (D., N. M.), has made a noble effort to put a little romance and sex appeal into the otherwise dry-as-a-dust-storm debate over Hawaii-Alaska statehood, which is now beginning to show signs of developing into a filibuster.

"One of the loveliest stories of California," Anderson told the Senate, "is about Rezanov, the Russian explorer who established colonies in Alaska and along the Pacific coast. . . . Finally Rezanov took up his residence in one of the loveliest cities of the world, San Francisco. There — in the Bay area from which our distinguished majority leader (Senator Knowland) comes—Rezanov met and fell in love with a young girl. Because of his desire to marry her, Rezanov rushed home to get permission of his queen and his church. In doing so he sacrificed his life. . . .

"I wish to say," concluded Anderson, " that had it not been for this episode we might now not be discussing the subject of bringing Alaska into the Union. Because Russia in that day not only had the desire but it had the facilities to make the entire west coast of the United States a part of the Russian empire."

One of the main arguments used by Treasury tax experts against raising personal income tax exemptions to, for example, $1000 for each member of the family is this: For a married couple with three children it would mean no taxes up to $5500 a year income. The present top income exemption for such a family is $3000.

This $1000 exemption would take an estimated 14 million taxpayers off the rolls. It would cost the government over $7 billion a year in revenue. This would, of course, grossly unbalance the budget.

Advocates of higher exemptions argue against this that any family trying to raise three children on less than $100 a week shouldn't have to pay any taxes. It has enough trouble without them.

Democrats Accused of Trying to Sabotage U.S. Foreign Policy for Political Advantage

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 29 — The American people may thank their lucky stars that the Stevenson-Acheson-Truman concepts of how to deal with Soviet Russia do not prevail today and that the Eisenhower-Dulles policy of clear-cut warnings and resolute preparations for any contingency that may arise, if the Communist aggressor moves again, has taken its place.

Because the average man is not always alerted to the insidious way by which politicians, for partisan advantage, do not hesitate to undermine the foreign policy of their own country and raise unnecessary suspicious that could divide our allies, the deliberate campaign of sabotage of American foreign policy which began with Adlai Stevenson's speech on March 6 has not received the attention it merited.

But now that former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, in a statement printed in "The New York Times" of Sunday, March 28, openly participates in the campaign against the use of "massive retaliation" as announced by Secretary Dulles in his New York speech of Jan. 12 last, it begins to be apparent that a concerted effort has been undertaken by the Trumanites to whittle down the force and effectiveness of the present program of the government of the United States.

It was not unusual during the last administration for speeches to be made which seemed firm and positive in their warnings to Soviet Russia that America was building its armament to deter aggression, only to be followed sooner or later by other speeches that toned down the meaning and whittled down the strength of the pronouncements.

What Messrs. Stevenson and Acheson have evidently decided to do is to accuse the Eisenhower-Dulles administration of planning some form of aggression or of formulating a policy deliberately inviting World War 3. If such statements had come from men without experience in government or unaware of the delicacy of dealing publicly with military plans and intentions which the enemy are always eager to learn, it would be understandable. But both Mr. Acheson and Mr. Stevenson know the dangers that arise when military planning is subject to public debate and minute cross-examinate by partisan critics. The sequence of events is this:

Secretary Dulles in his speech of Jan. 12 said: "Local defense will always be important. But there is no local defense which alone will contain the mighty land power of the Communist world. Local defenses must be reinforced by the further deterrent of massive retaliatory power. A potential aggressor must know that he cannot always prescribe battle conditions that suit him . . . The way to deter aggression is for the free community to be willing and able to respond vigorously at places and with means of its own choosing."

The important words to be noted are "free community," which, of course, means allied consultations and allied unity.

But on March 6, Adlai Stevenson, in a speech at Miami, said: "All this means, if it means anything, that if the Communists try another Korea we will retaliate by dropping bombs on Moscow or Peiping or wherever we choose—or else we will concede the loss of another Korea—and presumably other countries after that—as 'normal in the course of events.' He then asked: "Will we turn brush fires and local hostilities into major conflicts? Will our Allies go along?"

Although Canada's Foreign Minister, Lester Pearson, promptly followed the Stevenson line in a speech on March 12 which indirectly accused America, in effect, of thinking of going it alone in the world, Sir Winston Churchill on March 23 told the British Parliament that "smooth and friendly arrangements" had been made for instant consultations between the United States and Great Britain and that the recent statements by Secretary Dulles on the employment of United States atomic-bombing power have been in full accord with British-American understandings.

This, however, did not satisfy former Secretary Acheson, who in his statement published on March 28 insisted that America must resign herself to a lot of wars like Korea. He declared:

"If it is said, as it sometimes has been, that we cannot afford another war like Korea, the answer is that such a war is the only kind we or any one else can afford. Only a madman would attempt to avoid it by plunging into the unspeakable disaster of a world war."

Mr. Acheson seems to imply in his whole statement that, when American military forces are spread thin all over the world by being lured into local wars, the enemy will, of course, not take advantage of the military weakness of the Allied positions and will refrain from starting a major war.

How much more in keeping with realism and with the American spirit of resoluteness the Eisenhower policy happens to be can be seen by noting the words of Secretary Dulles in his speech this week, wherein he makes it clear that further aggression should be met by "united action" and that "sometimes it is necessary to take risks to win peace, just as it is necessary in war to take risks to win victory."

Mr. Dulles has not whittled down, softened, or adulterated his original statements. His firm attitude is one that can prevent a third world war and deter aggression even in local areas, just as the weak attitude revealed by Mr. Acheson—then Secretary of State—in his January, 1950 speech, notifying the Communist world that Korea was outside the defense perimeter of United States military planning, virtually invited the Communists to begin in June, 1950, their aggression in Korea.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Palm Beach, March 29 — Senator Joe McCarthy has proposed a congressional investigation of the press. For once I agree with the New York Times, which says it welcomes the idea. But the Times immediately puils the rug out from under itself by adding that it does not believe in such investigations as instruments of private ambition of agencies of terrorism. Neither do I, but the Times would be sure to holler bloody murder the instant that the marshal slapped subpoenas into the fists of its executives, editorial writers and propagandists of the "literary" and theatrical departments. Any investigation would inevitably publicize the names of the investigating statesmen and the Times would see in that the promotion of the private ambitions of those individuals. But what would be wrong about that?

The Times would also see "terrorism" in questions searching the minds of the groups of employes that I have mentioned for secrets of the editorial conference. I wouldn't. As a matter of fact, I have been asked hundreds of pages of such questions under oath in court, a daily process that the Times knows all about and as far as I know has never complained of at all.

And let me remind you that the Times saw neither of these alarming peculiarities in the Buchanan Committee's investigation of "lobbying" although citizens were put in jeopardy of prison for refusing to expose other persons to terroristic secret persecution. On the contrary, the Times thought well of the Buchanan Committee's abuse of selected victims and, later, praised a book which praised the committee's work but failed to deal with the covert facts of the case. The prime purpose of that vicious inquiry was to make people afraid to circulate John T. Flynn's alarm against Marxism, "The Road Ahead," and other such warning literature.

The press is a very influential force. It should somehow be held to account for its stewardship of the constitutional treasure of freedom of the press. The press, as property, seems to think that this freedom belongs exclusively to the newspapers, magazines and radio and television systems. That is not so. That freedom is the treasure of the people and is no more the property of any individual owner, editor, publisher, or writer than it is the property of so many carpenters and plumbers.

I am at loss for a method of approach. I think the press ought to volunteer to give information for the simple reason that it should have no editorial secrets from the public. But it won't. If a publisher publishes propaganda favoring or opposing some proposition, that is his constitutional right. Legally, there is nothing wrong about it. If it be shown that he had an ulterior, dishonest motive for his expressions that would still be no violation of his right. However, it might hold him up to such withering scorn by the public that his enterprise would show a financial loss and that would be a fair result and beneficial to the general public.

The conduct of the American free press has not been the least disgraceful phase of the controversy over Joe McCarthy. The press has covered itself with shame and noboby knows that better than the journalists who comprise it.

If it be argued that McCarthy or Roy Cohn lied in some particular—and I maintain that their lies, if any, at worst were mere fibs—then the glaring fact remains that the press has lied itself blue in the face month after month. When the press prints by way of comment, not news reports, two absolutely opposite versions of such a historic situation, one or the other of the two elements is lying. That lying is deliberate and is determined in editorial conferences. The purpose is to impose on the people. So why shouldn't the public be allowed to learn by a Congressional inquest just what the facts are? And enabled to decide which magazine and papers to distrust thereafter?

That part of the magazine press which purports to give "interpretation" and "opinion" is by all odds the worst, and the worst of that phenomenon is the fact that these magazines are trusted with childish credulity by millions of our most intelligent and useful citizens, the "better" element of their thousands of communities. You see such publications on practically every library table or night table in the country. In personal conduct, the men who run the most influential and worst of them are cynical fellows, mad about money and power. They have a constitutional right to lie, distort and misrepresent and I would not punish them for that. But we could show them up and let the public take the responsibility for its own deception if it continues to buy their magazines and patronize their advertisers.

I have not gone in for names in this general discussion because the situation is general. But there is one honorable exception in the news-magazine field which all ethical journalists will be glad to acknowledge. That is David Lawrence of United States News and World Report, whose great success is proof that it is not necessary to lie and sneer and misinform the reader to make a profit.

I perceive one difficulty. Congressional investigations are supposed to be made solely to elicit information for the guidance of Congress in the performance of its legislative function. Inasmuch as probably no law could emerge from such an inquiry, the inquiry would have no legitimate constitutional reason to be held. Perhaps others will be able to offer a solution of this difficulty.

The Times says "the responsible press of this country" has nothing to wear. No? Well, I want a seat down front when the publisher and editors and the heads of propaganda "departments" of the New York Times take the stand.

Furthermore, they have inspired postponement of the scheduled March 30 meeting at Brussels between the six nations which would comprise the elements of a European political federation.

Since the Germans want the Saar Europeanized, they believe early establishment of such a federation is imperative.

An outsider looking at this performance is inclined to conclude that if the Saar issue did not exist the French would project another as an obstacle to action on EDC.

Not only Bonn but The Netherlands and Belgium have virtually finished ratifying EDC. Of the remaining three signatories, Luxembourg is no problem, and Italy will undoubtedly follow France's lead. So, as it has always been, it is still up to France.

The world is waiting for her to join the community of free nations seriously interested in preserving their freedom.

More than one person, we feel, reaches the age of discretion long before he knows what it is.

MARX WAS WRONG

For years Marxists have bided their time, cherishing the thought that sooner or later a major depression would deliver the capitalist countries into their hands. A recent issue of U. S. News and World Report discusses a depression which is currently causing trouble behind the Iron Curtain—a depression far more serious than any yet experienced in the capitalist countries.

The article considers all the satellite countries and shows that in most of them, including countries like Czechoslovakia and Hungary which once enjoyed relatively high standards of living, food shortages have developed, production has slowed down and conditions are considered serious.

Aggravating the depression in the Communist countries is the dissatisfaction of the workers with the Red regime. The efforts of the leaders to boost production are met with apathy by the workers who have learned that they will be poorly rewarded in any case.

Our free enterprise system has faults and it is our job to correct those faults and work toward a continually better standard of living for more and more people. But we have the framework within which such improvements can be made. More and more it becomes apparent that the Marxist idea that capitalism will topple because of depression is mere wishful thinking on the part of the Communists. At the same time it becomes clear that the idea that controlled production can produce a Utopia is merely a tool ambitious men have used to enslave other men.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE MORAL SWITCH

Apparently these days, when there is no other explanation for ordinary friendships, for loyalties between men and women, when there is no other explanation for the simple forms of social life, we all go Freudian and hurl accusations of sex perversion and confusion. Let no man cast the first stone on this particular subject; we have all been guilty of this.

Lady Astor turned on me the other day, demanding whether there was nothing else to talk about, to write about, to make movies about, but distortions of sex relationships. The answer to that question is none too easy because obviously we are suffering from a cheapening of morals and manners, from frankness run riot, from language reduced to ugly simplicity. Even the word, romance, so beautiful in all tongues, has fallen from its lofty heights of emotional living, of joys and sighs and tears to a euphemism for experiments in sex relationship prior to marriage.

The homosexual vogue is probably exaggerated all out of proportion, there being no acceptable statistics on the subject in this or any other country. The two Kinsey reports cannot be accepted as informative; they are speculative treatises based on obviously inadequate data. In the six decades that I have traversed this vale of chaotic human relationships, I have personally known only three sex deviates, two males and one female, and most unhappy people they were. There may have been more, but I would not know. Apparently most such persons do not wear their weaknesses on their shirt sleeves any more than the rest of us do. The sex deviate who is arrested by the police is more rare than the person arrested for sundry crimes against property.

I am certain that in the places I visit for an evening snack I have encountered many of the celebrities whose names were blazoned in the Jelke Case, but I would not know how to recognize them. They dress as well and speak as well as their betters. In my childhood and youth, it was different: bad girls advertised themselves as such, hoping to do better business that way. Younger men tell me that it is all different now; that you never can tell.

The revolt against mid-Victorian manners seemed interesting and even important in the second decade of the Twentieth Century and apparently reached a state of anarchy during the Prohibition years, but usually the pendulum swings back to a sane approach to manners which are an outward manifestation of morals. Frustrated and frightened people are apparently impelled to exhibit themselves to prove that they exist; the adjusted, peaceful soul is willing to conform to the ways of his society lest extraordinary personal conduct interfere with the calmness of his existence. Life within the family requires no exhibitionism if the family unit is happy.

The newer term, sex deviate, has had too ready an acceptance as though it were a usual rather than an extraordinary condition among human beings. Men who advertise themselves as women and who achieve a notoriety because of their peculiarities add little to our knowledge or entertainment. Curiosity once satisfied, the exhibitionism palls and somehow one wants to cleanse himself. When manners go, it is not that we are freer; it is rather that we do not know what to do and how to behave. The disorders, in time, extend themselves to the whole of society and we become as confused in politics and economics as in our personal behavior. When any society is disorderly in its conduct, it is not likely that the thinking of the period will be logical.

The current overemphasis upon sex exhibitionism, particularly in its less usual manifestations, the diversion from family life to chaotic individualists, the insistence upon telling all in its grotesqueness has ceased to be interesting or amusing. The elevation of the sex deviate to a class and the use of slurs on character for political purpose have reached an extremity of ugliness that ought no longer be condoned by public opinion. Let's clean it up!

On the upward march, most civilizations tend to be puritanical; during what might be called a mature period in a civilization, when wealth and luxury are plentifully distributed, manners become loose and morals disappear from family life. This is decay and can only lead to the death of a people.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

OLD AGE AND ITS AILMENTS

So many people are now living to old age that there is more discussion about high blood presure, skin disease, loss of hearing, than when we did not live so long. Thus, in a booklet on old age, Dr. R. King Brown, Medical Editor of the British Journal of Physical Medicine, introduces his subject as follows:

"What is old age which Cicero states that all men aspire to but then complain of when it is attained? This question cannot be answered by counting the years one has lived because one man is old at 55 while another is young in the 70s?

Physicians measure age by the blood vessels. I remember, as a boy, a physician stating that my mother was 10 years younger than a sister 10 years younger because of the condition of her blood vessels.

As many have to meet old age, Dr. Brown states that the happiness or unhappiness of old age depends largely on how we have prepared for it and on the state of our health when we have reached it. If we are healthy and decay gradually and naturally, old age may be a very happy period. But even with many disabilities, much can be done to render the years of old age tolerable. By suitable measures, many diseases of old age may be cured or at least relieved and, combined with self-discipline in the matter of physical and mental exercise, will accomplish wonders and produce an optimism which will relieve the sufferer in his remaining years.

The first and one of the commonest of disabilities of old age is eye trouble. This is unfortunate for one of the most important recreations of old age is reading. Eye trouble comes on comparatively early and one cannot emphasize too much the importance of looking after the eyes. Reading cannot be enjoyed, as we grow older, without suitable aids.

We also read about the enlarged prostate gland which is popularly called old men's disease. An enlarged prostate gland may often be malignent (cancer), yet timely treatment for enlarged prostate may save the elderly individual from much suffering.

One of the annoying and often serious ailment in the mind of the patient is any chronic skin disease as it stands out for everybody to see and perhaps make inquiries about. In cases of skin disease among the elderly, our skin specialtists warn that in chronic cases more harm is done by overtreatment than by lack of treatment.

The Male Climacteric

Men do have change of life—the male climacteric. Symptoms may be slight loss of memory, lack of ability to concentrate, loss of confidence, emotional disturbances, and others. Our Motto---Anything Can Happen and Probably Will

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA) — Republican officials are greatly encouraged by preliminary figures on business activity for first quarter of 1954. They indicate that the recession, inventory readjustment, winter slump, transition to a peacetime economy—or whatever you want to call it—may not be nearly as serious as predicted and feared by some economists.

The first quarter doesn't end till March 31, of course. Final figures on it may not be available for another month. But the preliminary figures compiled for the Treasury Department show these trends, according to Undersecretary Marion B. Folsom:

Industrial production index is down 8 per cent—from 134 to 124. Nonagricultural employment is down 1.8 per cent—55.4 million to around 54.3 million. These are the admittedly bad spots.

The good spots are: Gross national product down only an estimated 1 per cent from last year's annual rate of $363.9 billion for the first quarter. And personal income is expected to be about the same as last year. For first quarter 1953 the annual rate was $263 billion.

"If I was a smart man, I don't think I'd be here today," said Defense Secretary C. E. Wilson in opening a recent press conference.

On that particular day, the feud between the Army and Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy was red hot. New developments were breaking fast on more American aid for the hard-pressed Viet Namese and French forces in Indo-China. The administration's "new look" defense policies for meeting threats of Communist aggression were on the Washington griddle. (Plus the usual daily crises.)

"I always want to be frank with you," Secretary Wilson told the reporters, "but today you can ask me a lot of questions which I can't answer. So go ahead and see how close you can get."

Rep. William Arthur Winstead, (D., Miss.), has been hearin' from the hills on his resolution to commemorate May 26 as "National Hillbilly Day."

Addicts of hillbilly music, however, seem to have gone a bit high-hat instead of just wide-brimmed-hat here of late.

Feeling that they are expressing the most popular musical art form in America, they resent the use of the word "hillbilly" as applied to their music. They want it known as "country music" instead. An appeal has been made that Winstead amend his resolution to read "National Country Music Day," instead of "Hillbilly Day."

"Pickin' and Singin' News," the national house organ for the hillbilly—pardon—country music industry, published in Nashville, has an open-letter-to-Congress editorial endorsing the amendment.

Senator Clinton P. Anderson, (D., N. M.), has made a noble effort to put a little romance and sex appeal into the otherwise dry-as-a-dust-storm debate over Hawaii-Alaska statehood, which is now beginning to show signs of developing into a filibuster.

"One of the loveliest stories of California," Anderson told the Senate, "is about Rezanov, the Russian explorer who established colonies in Alaska and along the Pacific coast. . . . Finally Rezanov took up his residence in one of the loveliest cities of the world, San Francisco. There — in the Bay area from which our distinguished majority leader (Senator Knowland) comes—Rezanov met and fell in love with a young girl. Because of his desire to marry her, Rezanov rushed home to get permission of his queen and his church. In doing so he sacrificed his life. . . .

"I wish to say," concluded Anderson, " that had it not been for this episode we might now not be discussing the subject of bringing Alaska into the Union. Because Russia in that day not only had the desire but it had the facilities to make the entire west coast of the United States a part of the Russian empire."

One of the main arguments used by Treasury tax experts against raising personal income tax exemptions to, for example, $1000 for each member of the family is this: For a married couple with three children it would mean no taxes up to $5500 a year income. The present top income exemption for such a family is $3000.

This $1000 exemption would take an estimated 14 million taxpayers off the rolls. It would cost the government over $7 billion a year in revenue. This would, of course, grossly unbalance the budget.

Advocates of higher exemptions argue against this that any family trying to raise three children on less than $100 a week shouldn't have to pay any taxes. It has enough trouble without them.

Democrats Accused of Trying to Sabotage U.S. Foreign Policy for Political Advantage

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 29 — The American people may thank their lucky stars that the Stevenson-Acheson-Truman concepts of how to deal with Soviet Russia do not prevail today and that the Eisenhower-Dulles policy of clear-cut warnings and resolute preparations for any contingency that may arise, if the Communist aggressor moves again, has taken its place.

Because the average man is not always alerted to the insidious way by which politicians, for partisan advantage, do not hesitate to undermine the foreign policy of their own country and raise unnecessary suspicious that could divide our allies, the deliberate campaign of sabotage of American foreign policy which began with Adlai Stevenson's speech on March 6 has not received the attention it merited.

But now that former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, in a statement printed in "The New York Times" of Sunday, March 28, openly participates in the campaign against the use of "massive retaliation" as announced by Secretary Dulles in his New York speech of Jan. 12 last, it begins to be apparent that a concerted effort has been undertaken by the Trumanites to whittle down the force and effectiveness of the present program of the government of the United States.

It was not unusual during the last administration for speeches to be made which seemed firm and positive in their warnings to Soviet Russia that America was building its armament to deter aggression, only to be followed sooner or later by other speeches that toned down the meaning and whittled down the strength of the pronouncements.

What Messrs. Stevenson and Acheson have evidently decided to do is to accuse the Eisenhower-Dulles administration of planning some form of aggression or of formulating a policy deliberately inviting World War 3. If such statements had come from men without experience in government or unaware of the delicacy of dealing publicly with military plans and intentions which the enemy are always eager to learn, it would be understandable. But both Mr. Acheson and Mr. Stevenson know the dangers that arise when military planning is subject to public debate and minute cross-examinate by partisan critics. The sequence of events is this:

Secretary Dulles in his speech of Jan. 12 said: "Local defense will always be important. But there is no local defense which alone will contain the mighty land power of the Communist world. Local defenses must be reinforced by the further deterrent of massive retaliatory power. A potential aggressor must know that he cannot always prescribe battle conditions that suit him . . . The way to deter aggression is for the free community to be willing and able to respond vigorously at places and with means of its own choosing."

The important words to be noted are "free community," which, of course, means allied consultations and allied unity.

But on March 6, Adlai Stevenson, in a speech at Miami, said: "All this means, if it means anything, that if the Communists try another Korea we will retaliate by dropping bombs on Moscow or Peiping or wherever we choose—or else we will concede the loss of another Korea—and presumably other countries after that—as 'normal in the course of events.' He then asked: "Will we turn brush fires and local hostilities into major conflicts? Will our Allies go along?"

Although Canada's Foreign Minister, Lester Pearson, promptly followed the Stevenson line in a speech on March 12 which indirectly accused America, in effect, of thinking of going it alone in the world, Sir Winston Churchill on March 23 told the British Parliament that "smooth and friendly arrangements" had been made for instant consultations between the United States and Great Britain and that the recent statements by Secretary Dulles on the employment of United States atomic-bombing power have been in full accord with British-American understandings.

This, however, did not satisfy former Secretary Acheson, who in his statement published on March 28 insisted that America must resign herself to a lot of wars like Korea. He declared:

"If it is said, as it sometimes has been, that we cannot afford another war like Korea, the answer is that such a war is the only kind we or any one else can afford. Only a madman would attempt to avoid it by plunging into the unspeakable disaster of a world war."

Mr. Acheson seems to imply in his whole statement that, when American military forces are spread thin all over the world by being lured into local wars, the enemy will, of course, not take advantage of the military weakness of the Allied positions and will refrain from starting a major war.

How much more in keeping with realism and with the American spirit of resoluteness the Eisenhower policy happens to be can be seen by noting the words of Secretary Dulles in his speech this week, wherein he makes it clear that further aggression should be met by "united action" and that "sometimes it is necessary to take risks to win peace, just as it is necessary in war to take risks to win victory."

Mr. Dulles has not whittled down, softened, or adulterated his original statements. His firm attitude is one that can prevent a third world war and deter aggression even in local areas, just as the weak attitude revealed by Mr. Acheson—then Secretary of State—in his January, 1950 speech, notifying the Communist world that Korea was outside the defense perimeter of United States military planning, virtually invited the Communists to begin in June, 1950, their aggression in Korea.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Palm Beach, March 29 — Senator Joe McCarthy has proposed a congressional investigation of the press. For once I agree with the New York Times, which says it welcomes the idea. But the Times immediately pulls the rug out from under itself by adding that it does not believe in such investigations as instruments of private ambition of agencies of terrorism. Neither do I, but the Times would be sure to holler bloody murder the instant that the marshal slapped subpoenas into the fists of its executives, editorial writers and propagandists of the "literary" and theatrical departments. Any investigation would inevitably publicize the names of the investigating statesmen and the Times would see in that the promotion of the private ambitions of those individuals. But what would be wrong about that?

The Times would also see "terrorism" in questions searching the minds of the groups of employes that I have mentioned for secrets of the editorial conference. I wouldn't. As a matter of fact, I have been asked hundreds of pages of such questions under oath in court, a daily process that the Times knows all about and as far as I know has never complained of at all.

And let me remind you that the Times saw neither of these alarming peculiarities in the Buchanan Committee's investigation of "lobbying" although citizens were put in jeopardy of prison for refusing to expose other persons to terroristic secret persecution. On the contrary, the Times thought well of the Buchanan Committee's abuse of selected victims and, later, praised a book which praised the committee's work but failed to deal with the covert facts of the case. The prime purpose of that vicious inquiry was to make people afraid to circulate John T. Flynn's alarm against Marxism, "The Road Ahead," and other such warning literature.

The press is a very influential force. It should somehow be held to account for its stewardship of the constitutional treasure of freedom of the press. The press, as property, seems to think that this freedom belongs exclusively to the newspapers, magazines and radio and television systems. That is not so. That freedom is the treasure of the people and is no more the property of any individual owner, editor, publisher, or writer than it is the property of so many carpenters and plumbers.

I am at loss for a method of approach. I think the press ought to volunteer to give information for the simple reason that it should have no editorial secrets from the public. But it won't. If a publisher publishes propaganda favoring or opposing some proposition, that is his constitutional right. Legally, there is nothing wrong about it. If it be shown that he had an ulterior, dishonest motive for his expressions that would still be no violation of his right. However, it might hold him up to such withering scorn by the public that his enterprise would show a financial loss and that would be a fair result and beneficial to the general public.

The conduct of the American free press has not been the least disgraceful phase of the controversy over Joe McCarthy. The press has covered itself with shame and noboby knows that better than the journalists who comprise it.

If it be argued that McCarthy or Roy Cohn lied in some particular—and I maintain that their lies, if any, at worst were mere fibs—then the glaring fact remains that the press has lied itself blue in the face month after month. When the press prints by way of comment, not news reports, two absolutely opposite versions of such a historic situation, one or the other of the two elements is lying. That lying is deliberate and is determined in editorial conferences. The purpose is to impose on the people. So why shouldn't the public be allowed to learn by a Congressional inquest just what the facts are? And enabled to decide which magazine and papers to distrust thereafter?

That part of the magazine press which purports to give "interpretation" and "opinion" is by all odds the worst, and the worst of that phenomenon is the fact that these magazines are trusted with childish credulity by millions of our most intelligent and useful citizens, the "better" element of their thousands of communities. You see such publications on practically every library table or night table in the country. In personal conduct, the men who run the most influential and worst of them are cynical fellows, mad about money and power. They have a constitutional right to lie, distort and misrepresent and I would not punish them for that. But we could show them up and let the public take the responsibility for its own deception if it continues to buy their magazines and patronize their advertisers.

I have not gone in for names in this general discussion because the situation is general. But there is one honorable exception in the news-magazine field which all ethical journalists will be glad to acknowledge. That is David Lawrence of United States News and World Report, whose great success is proof that it is not necessary to lie and sneer and misinform the reader to make a profit.

I perceive one difficulty. Congressional investigations are supposed to be made solely to elicit information for the guidance of Congress in the performance of its legislative function. Inasmuch as probably no law could emerge from such an inquiry, the inquiry would have no legitimate constitutional reason to be held. Perhaps others will be able to offer a solution of this difficulty.

The Times says "the responsible press of this country" has nothing to wear. No? Well, I want a seat down front when the publisher and editors and the heads of propaganda "departments" of the New York Times take the stand.

Youth Remember Classmate Victim Of Heart Attack

How thoughtful and kind high school youngsters can be was shown recently when a memoriam contribution was received by the Heart Chapter, 74 John street, Kingston. A check for $45.22 was forwarded from the Students Activities Group at the Wallkill Central School in memory of Dominick Scopteuolo, a young boy from Wallkill High School who died of a heart attack on June 11, 1952. Following his tragic death his classmates established a memoriam fund, and have contributed monies to the Heart Chapter periodically since that time.

This memoriam fund is being used by the Heart Chapter as it uses all Heart Fund contributions. Thirty per cent of heart contributions is forwarded to the American Heart Association, most of which is used for heart research. The seventy per cent which remains in the county is used for education — distribution of leaflets, showing of films, and teaching about the heart and cardiovascular diseases. A diagnostic heart service for people who are referred to the Heart Committee by their family physician is also part of the program. The individuals referred are given an electric cardiogram, X-ray, complete blood count, urinalysis and other tests necessary in the diagnosis of rheumatic or other heart diseases.

N. Jansen Fowler, chairman of the Ulster County Heart Chapter, in announcing receipt of this contribution, expressed the appreciation of the Heart Chapter to the students for their thoughtfulness of others.

Fowler also said that although the 1954 Heart Campaign is formally closed, contributions are still coming to the Heart Committee Office. To date a total of $7,339.86 has been contributed by Ulster county residents.

Completing Plans For Hobby Show

Arrangements are being made for the fifth annual Hudson Valley Hobby Show, scheduled for May 11, 12 and 13 at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, 7 to 10 o'clock nightly. The show is sponsored by the Kingston YWCA.

"Many new features as well as widely diversified hobbies and commercial exhibits will be on display to make our show the biggest in five years," stated Mrs. Joseph D. Scholar, Jr., general chairman.

At the initial meeting of the general committee announcement was made of the various committee chairmen to plan this year's show. In charge of interviewing and obtaining amateur hobbyists for the show are Mrs. Richard Stillings, Mrs. Frank Donohue and Mrs. George Dennis. Applications from hobbyists all over the area will be reviewed during the next several weeks.

Several commercial exhibitors have contracted for space, but additional booths are available and may be obtained through Mrs. John R. Warren, chairman of commercial exhibits.

Other committee chairmen announced are: Mrs. John Glennon, advance ticket sales; Mrs. Herbert Dickerson and Mrs. Robert Tremper, decorations; Mrs. Merrill Yaple, ushers; Mrs. Vincent Guido, new features; Mrs. Theron Culver, commercial signs; Miss Bertha Waterman and Mrs. Celeste Porter, food table.

The hobby show, which has become an annual event, serves a two-fold purpose: to bring together the newest and most unusual hobbyists of the area to share their hobbies with others, and to enable the YWCA to further augment its services to the youth of the community from the proceeds of the show.

ASKS FOR McCARTHY'S RECALL—Leroy Gore, editor of the Sauk City (Wis.) Star, holds a copy of his newspaper in which he calls for the recall of Sen. Joseph McCarthy. Only 500 of the 4000 petitions he printed are left. A recall election on McCarthy's senatorial post would require 400,000 signatures, collected within a 60-day period.

Youth Remember Classmate Victim Of Heart Attack

How thoughtful and kind high school youngsters can be was shown recently when a memoriam contribution was received by the Heart Chapter, 74 John street, Kingston. A check for $45.22 was forwarded from the Students Activities Group at the Wallkill Central School in memory of Dominick Scopteuolo, a young boy from Wallkill High School who died of a heart attack on June 11, 1952. Following his tragic death his classmates established a memoriam fund, and have contributed monies to the Heart Chapter periodically since that time.

This memoriam fund is being used by the Heart Chapter as it uses all Heart Fund contributions. Thirty per cent of heart contributions is forwarded to the American Heart Association, most of which is used for heart research. The seventy per cent which remains in the county is used for education — distribution of leaflets, showing of films, and teaching about the heart and cardiovascular diseases. A diagnostic heart service for people who are referred to the Heart Committee by their family physician is also part of the program. The individuals referred are given an electric cardiogram, X-ray, complete blood count, urinalysis and other tests necessary in the diagnosis of rheumatic or other heart diseases.

N. Jansen Fowler, chairman of the Ulster County Heart Chapter, in announcing receipt of this contribution, expressed the appreciation of the Heart Chapter to the students for their thoughtfulness of others.

Fowler also said that although the 1954 Heart Campaign is formally closed, contributions are still coming to the Heart Committee Office. To date a total of $7,339.86 has been contributed by Ulster county residents.

Central Engages Armory

New York, March 30 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad has engaged the Washington Avenue Armory in Albany to accommodate the big crowd expected at the May 26 stockholders meeting when control of the system will be at stake. Switch of the meeting place from the Ten Eyck Hotel in Albany, where shareholders have met in past years, was announced by the Railroad yesterday. The armory accommodates 3,500 persons. Financier Robert R. Young's attempt to wrest control of the Central from the present management is scheduled to be acted on at the meeting May 26.

About 4 per cent of the land area of New York state is classified as urban.

Completing Plans For Hobby Show

Arrangements are being made for the fifth annual Hudson Valley Hobby Show, scheduled for May 11, 12 and 13 at the Kingston Municipal Auditorium, 7 to 10 o'clock nightly. The show is sponsored by the Kingston YWCA.

"Many new features as well as widely diversified hobbies and commercial exhibits will be on display to make our show the biggest in five years," stated Mrs. Joseph D. Scholar, Jr., general chairman.

At the initial meeting of the general committee announcement was made of the various committee chairmen to plan this year's show. In charge of interviewing and obtaining amateur hobbyists for the show are Mrs. Richard Stillings, Mrs. Frank Donohue and Mrs. George Dennis. Applications from hobbyists all over the area will be reviewed during the next several weeks.

Several commercial exhibitors have contracted for space, but additional booths are available and may be obtained through Mrs. John R. Warren, chairman of commercial exhibits.

Other committee chairmen announced are: Mrs. John Glennon, advance ticket sales; Mrs. Herbert Dickerson and Mrs. Robert Tremper, decorations; Mrs. Merrill Yaple, ushers; Mrs. Vincent Guido, new features; Mrs. Theron Culver, commercial signs; Miss Bertha Waterman and Mrs. Celeste Porter, food table.

The hobby show, which has become an annual event, serves a two-fold purpose: to bring together the newest and most unusual hobbyists of the area to share their hobbies with others, and to enable the YWCA to further augment its services to the youth of the community from the proceeds of the show.

The left ears of taxi drivers, exposed to traffic noises are likely to have poorer hearing than the right ears.

ASKS FOR McCARTHY'S RECALL—Leroy Gore, editor of the Sauk City (Wis.) Star, holds a copy of his newspaper in which he calls for the recall of Sen. Joseph McCarthy. Only 500 of the 4000 petitions he printed are left. A recall election on McCarthy's senatorial post would require 400,000 signatures, collected within a 60-day period.

Mrs. Peter Hoffman, Jr., entertained Saturday evening, March 27, at her home in honor of her husband's birthday. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Walter Born, Mrs. George Taylor, Rodney Conklin, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Harvey, Miss Marilyn Harvey and Miss Patricia Hoffman.

A meeting of the Rosendale Cemetery Association has been scheduled for Tuesday, April 6, at 2 p. m. at the cemetery offices. The election of trustees whose terms expire will be held and such cemetery business as is necessary will be transacted.

The regular monthly meeting of the Tillson school Thursday evening, April 1, at 8 o'clock. This will be also a "kitchen shower" meeting, and members are asked to bring with them an article, such as dish towels, linens, and so on, which will be given to the school for the kitchen. Details of the show, the Frolics of '54, which will be presented on the stage of the school Saturday, May 8, will be given. All members are requested to be in attendance.

Two of Tillson's 4H Club members won ribbons at the Ulster County 4H Club Demonstration day held Saturday at the vocational school at Kingston. They were David Mollenhauer, who won a red ribbon for the hay rack he exhibited and Sandra Phillips who won a blue ribbon for her winter corsages.

Compromise Bill On Excise Taxes Passed by House

Washington, March 30 (AP)—The House today overwhelmingly passed a compromise bill cutting more than 20 excise taxes an estimated 999 million dollars a year, effective Thursday.

That sent the proposal to the Senate, where final congressional approval was expected late today.

Just before the House vote, Speaker Martin (R.-Mass.) told reporters he is confident President Eisenhower will sign the bill tomorrow.

In a brief debate, House Democrats needled Republicans with the contention that the final version of the bill, written by a Senate-House conference committee yesterday, includes many provisions supported by Democrats but opposed by Republicans when the original measure was before the House.

Rep. Eberharter (D.-Pa.) said Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey has been claiming the tax cuts would "ruin the country" but he added that Secretary of Commerce Weeks said over the weekend "the excise tax cuts would help bail out the Eisenhower administration by providing a stimulus to business."

Battle for Control

New York, March 30 (AP)—A battle for control of Algam Corp., owner of Yonkers Raceway, was brought into the open at a meeting yesterday of the corporation's stockholders. The struggle is an outgrowth of rulings made by the Moreland Act Commission after its recent investigation of harness racing. The Yonkers Trotting Assn., which now leases its track from Algam, holds 15,000 of the remaining 24,000 shares of of voting stock. Since Old Country cannot vote, Yonkers thus attains temporary control of the corporation.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said Dulles' address to the Overseas Press Club in New York last night also proved the importance the American people attach to the questions of Sotuheast Asia. The spokesman described the speech as a strong warning to the government of Communist China.

Churchill Backs Tests

London, March 30 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill today threw his support behind the U. S. hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific and said American possession of the H-bomb "provides the greatest possible deterrent against the outbreak of a third world war." Addressing a House of Commons deeply concerned over the threat to humanity from hydrogen warfare, the 79-year-old leader rejected Laborite demands that he try to persuade the United States to halt further H-bomb tests.

The first trial sale will include 40 pounds of United States and 20 pounds of foreign used stamps, including 25,000 received at the White House.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 30 (AP)—The stock market edged a little higher today after surmounting early roughness.

Aircrafts dominated trading with some gains in this division extending to between 3 and 4 points at times. As a general thing, few gains got past a point. Losses were small.

At the start, the market was mixed as the oils and railroads dragged along. Later these two divisions perked up a bit, and the entire market took on a higher look.

RKO pictures hit the tape time and again with large blocks, some as large as 32,100 shares. Most of the business was transacted at 6⅛. Stockholders of the company had agreed to sell the company to Howard Hughes at $6 a share, and today's business represented a slight premium over that figure.

Wilson Describes The H-Bomb Tests As 'Unbelievable'

Washington, March 30 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson today described the results of the recent H-bomb tests as "unbelievable."

At the same time, Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission said he saw no reason for concern over the unexpected force of the monster March 1 hydrogen explosion.

Strauss, just back from the Pacific atomic testing grounds, made the statement to newsmen at the White House after conferring with President Eisenhower for an hour.

The AEC chairman gave the President an eye-witness account of the latest hydrogen explosion in the Pacific area, touched off last Friday, and also reported on the shattering March 1 blast.

"Is there any reason for concern over the unexpected force of the first (March 1) test?" a reporter asked him.

"I haven't any," Strauss replied.

A member of Congress has suggested that that explosion got out of control. The President himself told a news conference last week that something must have happened at the March 1 test that surprised and astonished the scientists who conducted it.

Strauss witnessed the hydrogen explosion which the Atomic Energy Commission announced last night was touched off last Friday. He was not on hand for the March 1 explosion, but presumably got a detailed report on it while he was in the Pacific testing area.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 30 (AP)—The stock market edged a little higher today after surmounting early roughness.

Aircrafts dominated trading with some gains in this division extending to between 3 and 4 points at times. As a general thing, few gains got past a point. Losses were small.

At the start, the market was mixed as the oils and railroads dragged along. Later these two divisions perked up a bit, and the entire market took on a higher look.

RKO pictures hit the tape time and again with large blocks, some as large as 32,100 shares. Most of the business was transacted at 6⅛. Stockholders of the company had agreed to sell the company to Howard Hughes at $6 a share, and today's business represented a slight premium over that figure.

12 Dead in Snowstorm

Buffalo, N. Y., March 30 (AP)—A foot and a half of snow blustered off the Great Lakes yesterday and today and caused at least 12 deaths in its transport-paralyzing rampage through a large area of New York state. The storm eased up this morning after moving eastward across the state during the night. The fall at Buffalo was measured officially at 14 inches, with drifts up to three feet in some areas. Up to 17½ inches were reported in some sections.

"GISMO" TAKES A LOOK—"Gismo" and his boss, Sherwood "Woody" Fuehrer, of Cranston, R. I., read the paper together. The 13-year-old boy made the robot from cans, gears, motors, die castings and other discarded parts. The robot is five feet, 11 inches tall, and weighs 92 pounds.

Wilson Describes The H-Bomb Tests As 'Unbelievable'

Washington, March 30 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson today described the results of the recent H-bomb tests as "unbelievable."

At the same time, Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission said he saw no reason for concern over the unexpected force of the monster March 1 hydrogen explosion.

Strauss, just back from the Pacific atomic testing grounds, made the statement to newsmen at the White House after conferring with President Eisenhower for an hour.

The AEC chairman gave the President an eye-witness account of the latest hydrogen explosion in the Pacific area, touched off last Friday, and also reported on the shattering March 1 blast.

"Is there any reason for concern over the unexpected force of the first (March 1) test?" a reporter asked him.

"I haven't any," Strauss replied.

A member of Congress has suggested that that explosion got out of control. The President himself told a news conference last week that something must have happened at the March 1 test that surprised and astonished the scientists who conducted it.

Strauss witnessed the hydrogen explosion which the Atomic Energy Commission announced last night was touched off last Friday. He was not on hand for the March 1 explosion, but presumably got a detailed report on it while he was in the Pacific testing area.

A witness, 1st Lt. Morris Beschloss, reported "the aircraft came out of low-hanging clouds, it's left engine was aflame and it was listing badly. The plane hit the top of a BOQ (bachelor officers quarters) and the tail section came off.

Skids Across Field

"It then cut a light pole in half, skidded and bounced across the parade field into the mess hall."

South managed to lose his game contract in today's hand, but it is highly probable that most players would meet the same fate. It isn't easy to see where declarer went wrong.

West opened the jack of clubs, and South won with the king. South returned a spade from his hand, playing a spade from dummy, and East played low. South returned to his hand with a club in order to lead another spade towards dummy, but this time East captured the queen with the ace of spades.

East shifted to the ten of diamonds, and South won with the ace. South might have made his contact now by guessing the exact distribution, but he tried the normal finesse of the queen of hearts. This lost, and back came another diamond.

Needless to say, the fat was now in the fire. Nothing broke well, and South made only eight tricks; two spades, one heart, two diamonds and three clubs.

South could have made his contact without the aid of any double-dummy maneuvers. Can you see the right line of play?

After winning the first trick with the king of clubs, South should lead a spade and play a low card from the dummy!

West is allowed to hold the first round of spades with the eight or nine, and his best defense is to shift to a heart. Dummy plays the nine, and East wins with the ten of hearts.

East cannot safely continue the hearts, so he must lead a club or diamond to South's hand. Now South can lead his other spade, putting up one of dummy's honors in order to force out East's ace.

This establishes three spade tricks in the dummy, with the ace of hearts as a sure entry to them. By establishing a third spade trick in this way, South assures his game contract.

Held for Tying Children

New York, March 30 (AP)—Police have arrested a young mother and father who they said bound their babies to a bed and then whirled off on dope sprees. The couple, seized yesterday on a narcotics charge, were identified as Cono Innamorato, 24, an ex-boxer, and his blonde wife, Patricia, 19. Police said the children, Robert, 3, and Conro, Jr., 18 months, had been tied in a crib by their wrists in the Innamorato's grimy basement apartment in Brooklyn.

New York, March 30 (AP)—The man who is challenging present management for control of the New York Central Railroad, financier Robert R. Young, says his group is within 28 per cent of its goal. Support of that much more of the outstanding stock would give his forces victory over present management headed by President William White, he said yesterday.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Remember the days when you could get seven gallons of gas for your car for $1.00. According to The Kingston Freeman and Journal of Friday, June 11, 1915, a jump of some two cents per gallon in the price of gasoline was made by all garages handling gasoline in Kingston. Gasoline had been selling at 13 cents a gallon and that morning it went up to 15 cents. It seems that a year ago (1914) gasoline was selling in Kingston for from 20 to 22 cents a gallon but a gasoline war ensued which resulted in dropping the price lower until it finally reached the all-low of 13 cents.

It also was around this time that our streets were dusty and all the aldermen were fighting to have their streets oiled first. Street Superintendent Van Keuren had all he could do to keep up with their demands. It seems that daily there was a report in the local newspapers what progress was made. In the above date he announced that he had completed about three-fourths of the oiling of Abeel street from Post street to the city line. A heavy grade of binding oil was used.

Reading an old local newspaper is like going through an old family album. So many of the stories I remember talked about by elders and now I can read it myself. In 1915 there was an interesting trial going on and many of the names are familiar to me although I did not know the people. Also one full page was devoted to the firemen's convention and carnival and parade of June 17 of that year.

The advertisement read: "Look! 4,000 Uniformed Firemen in line, 35 bands of music, 15 drum corps. Parade over two miles long. No need of bringing your lunch along etc.," as some 20 eating houses and prominent hotels of 1915 banded together and bought the full page in The Freeman. There was Arthur Steiler's place at 314 Fair street, just three doors from Kraft's Cafe who advertised, "all home cooking, regular dinners served, tables for ladies." The Senate Lunch at 394½ Fair street opposite the Stuyvesant Hotel was run by the Casey Bros., and were known for their good food.

For an interesting place to eat there was The Balcony Lunch Room overlooking a fine view of the mountains in the Carl's Dept. Store on North Front street which later became Rose-Gorman and Rose and now Montgomery and Ward. M. V. Woolheater ran it. He had an ice cream fountain as well as lunch room there. It seems corner Broadway and St. James street always was a good spot for an eating place, for back in 1915 there was Jack's Quick Lunch with home made pies and food. Robert Freer's place at 535 Broadway, one door from the West Shore crossing was known as the "Working Man's Home" where they had hot and cold lunches and Barmanns' and Hauck's beer on draught and of course wines and liquors. Those were the days when the United States Hotel advertised: "Best accommodations that you will find anywhere in town, regular dinners served, also hot and cold lunches, just a step from the West Shore Depot. Look for the big gold letters. 'United States'." At the time the hotel was owned by Melvin Beadle. The building was recently taken down for the underpass.

New York, March 30 (AP)—Financier Patrick W. Jury Disagrees In Assault Case

A jury trying a third degree assault charge against James Cave, Jr., of 9 Joy's Lane, announced it could not agree after a half-hour of deliberation Monday night.

The magistrate's court jury of six persons was polled and four voted in favor of acquittal and two for conviction, following the trial before Justice of the Peace Edward Brodsky of the town of Rosendale. The jury was dismissed and April 19 set as date for a new trial.

Cave was arrested February 14 by state police on a warrant issued on complaint of Mrs. Dorothy Miller of 253 West Chestnut street, alleging an assault said to have taken place at Creek Locks. Cave pleaded innocent and was represented by Louis G. Bruhn, former Ulster county district attorney. Attorney Abram F. Molyneaux appeared for the district attorney's office.

Phone Testimony

Albany, N. Y., March 30 (AP)—Paul O. Gunsalus, assistant vice president of the New York Telephone Co., testified today that an increase in the number of telephones would boost the value of the instrument to each subscriber. Gunsalus appeared for the second day, at the Public Service Commission's hearing on the company's bid for a $68,850,000-a-year rate increase. George E. Goldthwaite of New York city, consulting engineer for the PSC, was on hand to testify.

Two Shot to Death

New York, March 30 (AP)—A patrolman and his mother were found shot to death today in their St. Albans, Queens, apartment in what police described as an apparent murder and suicide. A gun lying near the mother's body led police to investigate the possibility she had shot the son and then herself. The victims, who appeared to have been dead for several days, were Patrolman Michael F. Jacobs, 28, of 186-23 Baisley Boulevard, St. Albans, and his mother, Margaret, 55.

In the account of a two-car collision at the intersection of Maiden Lane and Clinton avenue in Saturday's Freeman it was reported that a car operated by John H. Ford, 32, of 187 Clinton avenue, had to be towed away. It is understood, however, that Ford was able to drive his car from the scene. The 1941 sedan operated by Mrs. James C. Geary, Jr., of Colonial Gardens, had to be towed away.

ents will be required before any child is given the injections. Special forms will be provided for the purpose.

Experience elsewhere has indicated that approximately 90 per cent of the parents will want their children to be included in the trial, Dr. Hargrave said. He emphasized that health authorities "know it is safe." The only question to be resolved by the trial is how effective the vaccine will be. The vaccine was developed by Dr. Jonas Salk, research professor of bacteriology at the University of Pittsburgh, who has already given it to several thousand children and adults, including his own wife and children.

To Start In April

In order to complete the last in the series of three injections to be given each child before school closes for the summer, Dr. Hargrave said it will be necessary to begin the injections by the last week in April or the first week of May.

Whether the vaccine will be available in sufficient quantity to begin the Ulster county trials by that time still remains a question, Dr. Hargrave revealed. The first batch of commercial size to be produced is scheduled to become available about April 12, and is already earmarked for the southern states, he said.

The vaccine will be financed through March of Dimes funds and there will be no charge to parents of children participating in the test.

Thursday's meeting will be held in the high school auditorium at 8 p. m.

Would Void Election

3. A National Labor Relations Board hearing in Washington on last December's bargaining representation election. The ILA apparently came out ahead of the rival AFL union of the same name, but an NLRB examiner has recommended that the election be set aside because of alleged ILA threats and strong-arm tactics at the polls.

4. A new injunction to be sought by the NLRB to keep tugboat crews from supporting the strike. NLRB officials were reported ready to request the injunction in federal court in New York today.

5. Unfair labor practice charges filed with the NLRB yesterday by the New York Shipping Association. The employers charges, that the ILA infringes on the right to work, could result in a court order banning all pickets and non-working longshoremen from the waterfront. The association represents 170 shipping and stevedoring companies.

Sympathy Wanes

While legal troubles rained down on the strikers, the union gave up hope of sympathy walkouts in other east coast ports.

ILA President William V. Bradley announced no general strike would be called, after he met in Philadelphia yesterday with other members of the ILA Atlantic coast council.

The ILA here has asked Longshoremen in other ports to refuse to handle cargo of ships diverted from New York's struck piers.

The ILA also took its fight to Washington where 1,000 pickets marched yesterday in an orderly parade in front of the White House. They were unsuccessful in getting a chance to talk to the President.

However, a delegation called on NLRB Director Guy Farmer to protest delay in naming a winner in last December's bargaining election.

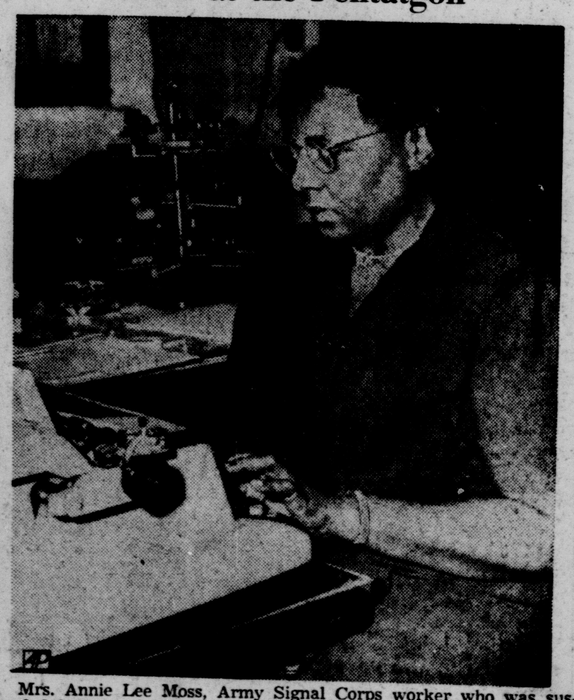

The board holds its first hearing today on the examiner's recommendation that another election be held.

Blames Roosevelt

Washington, March 30 (AP)—The old dispute over responsibility for the Pearl Harbor disaster has been reopened by Rear Adm. Robert A. Theobald (ret.), who places the blame squarely on the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Theobald, who commanded a destroyer flotilla at the Hawaiian base when the Japanese struck Dec. 7, 1941, says in a new book that Roosevelt deliberately goaded Japan into war with the United States.

Apple Storage Is Due for Inspection By Midwest Group

Representatives of the Michigan Cold Storage Association were scheduled to arrive in Ulster county this noon for an inspection tour of controlled atmosphere storages for apples in the southern section of the county.

The group's itinerary included the Schoonmaker storage at Wallkill, Sanford Orchards at New Paltz, and Hurd's storage at Clintondale.

The Ulster tour was arranged by L. W. Marvin, manager of the New York and New England Apple Institute who pointed out that this area boasts the most scientific and modern methods of apple storage in the country. The new controlled atmosphere type of storage is replacing the older "cold storage" method of keeping apples.

The luncheon will be at Delaware Inn.

At Hobart another group will board the train for the run to Oneonta where it will join with an Oneonta group at lunch. One of the railroad men will address that group.

Train 528 east bound for Kingston will be delayed 45 minutes, leaving Oneonta at 1:30 p. m. in order to accommodate the Hobart group.

Found Unconscious

New York, March 30 (AP)—A youth tentatively identified as John Sutherland, 19, of 134 Columbia avenue, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., was found unconscious last night in a midtown hotel room, police reported. He was taken to St. Clare's Hospital where doctors said he was apparently suffering from barbiturate poisoning. His condition was regarded as fair. Police said a bottle of sleeping pills was found in his room in the Penn Terminal Hotel.

wall, and most of the windows in the building were broken, he told the sheriff.

Committed in February

After investigation by County Investigator Arthur H. Brown, the boys admitted doing the damage on February 22, he alleged. They will be taken to Children's Court.

The burglary of tools was reported Monday of this week by the John Aborio Construction Company, contractors on the Thruway. The company said someone had knocked the lock off a tool shed in the area where the superhighway project crosses Route 55 near Ardonia, and had taken several tools. The lock had also been knocked from the cab of a power shovel and a grease gun taken; also a grease gun and tools from another piece of equipment known as a Grade-All.

Some Tools Recovered

County Investigator Brown traced the job to two brothers, 14 and 15, who admitted, according to Brown, they had bothered contractors equipment on three occasions. Some of the tools were recovered along with a large tarpaulin that had not been reported missing.

Three Extra Coaches

When Train 527 leaves on its west trip at 7:30, in addition to the usual engine, mail car and combination baggage and passenger car, there will be hooked up for the final run at least three extra coaches.

Kingston Rotarians will make the trip to Stamford where they will meet with the Stamford Club and hear an address on the history of Catskill mountain railroading either by Superintendent Tucker or Assistant Advertising Manager Gaynor. Henry P. Eighmey of The Kingston Freeman advertising staff and for several years president of the Kingston Model Railroad Club, will also speak on the history of the Ulster & Delaware Railroad. The luncheon will be at Delaware Inn.

At Hobart another group will board the train for the run to Oneonta where it will join with an Oneonta group at lunch. One of the railroad men will address that group.

Train 528 east bound for Kingston will be delayed 45 minutes, leaving Oneonta at 1:30 p. m. in order to accommodate the Hobart group.

The Kingston Rotarians will be picked up at Stamford on the east bound run and the train is scheduled to arrive back in Kingston about 5:30 p. m. when passenger service on the Catskill Mountain branch will end.

Found Unconscious

New York, March 30 (AP)—A youth tentatively identified as John Sutherland, 19, of 134 Columbia avenue, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., was found unconscious last night in a midtown hotel room, police reported. He was taken to St. Clare's Hospital where doctors said he was apparently suffering from barbiturate poisoning. His condition was regarded as fair. Police said a bottle of sleeping pills was found in his room in the Penn Terminal Hotel.

wall, and most of the windows in the building were broken, he told the sheriff.

Committed in February

After investigation by County Investigator Arthur H. Brown, the boys admitted doing the damage on February 22, he alleged. They will be taken to Children's Court.

The burglary of tools was reported Monday of this week by the John Aborio Construction Company, contractors on the Thruway. The company said someone had knocked the lock off a tool shed in the area where the superhighway project crosses Route 55 near Ardonia, and had taken several tools. The lock had also been knocked from the cab of a power shovel and a grease gun taken; also a grease gun and tools from another piece of equipment known as a Grade-All.

Some Tools Recovered

County Investigator Brown traced the job to two brothers, 14 and 15, who admitted, according to Brown, they had bothered contractors equipment on three occasions. Some of the tools were recovered along with a large tarpaulin that had not been reported missing.

Pity Miss Martha Marew
Who drank only the thinnest, thin brew
Till her waist got so small
It was no waist at all
And poor Miss Marew snapped in two.

Don't worry about Martha. No one brand of beer can make you slim—or fat—all by itself. * The one big difference in beers today is flavor, and flavor has no calories. So don't be fooled by fancy claims. Look for flavor . . . drink the beer that's brewed for enjoyment—Schaefer.

Local Guardsmen Participate in Upstate Maneuver

Fourteen National Guard officers and enlisted men of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, New York National Guard, attended a two-day division map maneuver conducted by the 27th Infantry Division at the 108th Infantry Armory, Syracuse, Saturday and Sunday.

The maneuver, simulating all combat conditions, was designed for the capture of Nancy, France. Lt. Col. Frank W. Harkin, commanding officer of the local battalion, commanded the 77th Field Artillery for the maneuver. Other staff officers: Maj. Arthur H. Marx of Poughkeepsie, executive officer; Maj. James H. Ackerman of Poughkeepsie, operations (S-3); Capt. William J. Burke, Poughkeepsie, intelligence (S-2); Capt. Frank Fabbie, Kingston, liason officer No. 1; Capt. Andrew B. Grier, Kingston, communications; First Lt. Edward J. Schrowang, Kingston, battalion supply officer and commander of Service Battery; First Lt. Augustus R. Schrowang, Kingston, liason officer No. 2; Lt. Nelson J. Houghtaling, Kingston, liason officer No. 3 and reconnaissance and survey officer, and Chief Warrant Officer Thomas W. Miller, Kingston, personnel officer.

Serves as Umpire

Maj. Gordon Washburn, local army adviser, served as umpire for the local unit. Brig. Gen. Horace Cushman was chief umpire.

Enlisted personnel attending were Sgt. 1/c Frederick M. Dressel, message center chief; Master Sgts. William K. Windram, intelligence sergeant, and Raymond W. Smith, operations sergeant.

Over 400 officers and men participated in the weekend exercise.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Harkin will visit division headquarters in Buffalo today to attend a testimonial banquet for Brig. Gen. William M. Flanigan, retiring commanding general of the 27th Division Artillery. Prior to the banquet the 27th Division will hold a review in honor of Flanigan.

Gen. Flanigan visited the Kingston units of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion last month. It is reported that Brig. Gen. Brainard Prescott will succeed Gen. Flanigan. He is well-known in this area. During World War 2 he was Assistant G-1 of X Corps operating in the Pacific Theatre.

Insurance on the Hoof

Atlanta, (AP)—A customer ordered bacon and eggs in Mrs. C. E. Allen's restaurant. Being rushed, she didn't look closely at him or recognize him. While she was preparing his order, the grease in the frying pan on the stove burst into flame while she was in front of the restaurant. Before she could move, the man dashed into the kitchen and beat out the blaze. Then she recognized him as William S. Brown an insurance agent who had written a fire policy on her restaurant a short time before.

Alaskan Grain Exhibited

Fort St. John, B.C. (AP)—Oats, barley and wheat from the University of Alaska at Fairbanks were entered in the Peace River Seed Fair here. Fairbanks is a little over 100 miles from the Arctic Circle. The wheat is of a variety described as the earliest maturing in existence—a cross between Siberian khogot and Swedish diamond.

MONUMENT FOR FREEDOM—This is a sketch of the proposed "Freedom Shrine" to be erected in Washington, D. C., as a living monument to Americans' individual rights. The monument would be 110 feet high, with the basic rights of Americans enumerated on its four sides. Capped with a perpetual "freedom flame" and busts of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Franklin, its inner rooms would contain copies of America's freedom documents and a place where visitors could sign their personal pledge to freedom. Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge, the sponsoring organization, seeks to collect $3.5 million from the general public to build the monument.

Far East Films Made

London (AP)—British film makers are turning to the east these days for adventure movies. Jack Hawkins, star of "The Cruel Sea," is busy shooting a color film "The Seekers" in New Zealand. With him are Laya Raki, Noel Purcell and others from Pinewood studio. "The Purple Plain" with Gregory Peck and the Burmese discovery Win Min Than is being filmed in Ceylon. It's a jungle story about Burma. Director Philip Leacock who made "The Kidnappers" is in Aden exploring a hidden desert city for a picture to be called "Ingrams Peace." This also will star Jack Hawkins. They hope to get started soon.

Expensive Warmup

St. Louis (AP)—It took more than a week of sleuthing by fire department officials to find four boys who were seen entering a sewer manhole, slipped out unnoticed and produced a futile search that cost the city an estimated $2,000. "We just went in to get warm," one boy said.

Shokan

Shokan, March 29—Callers in the hub of the reservoir country Wednesday included Gina Kerper who has an antiques shop in Oneonta. Mrs. Kerper, in the course of her trip to the Kingston area, picked up a couple of those scarce old hanging lamps such as were suspended above most every sitting room table, back there in the Gay Nineties.

Will Hummell of Fox Hollow and Reuben Dent of Greene county were callers in the village center Tuesday.

Use of the wheel chair recently acquired by the Olive public health nursing committee may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Marion Wiese at the Ashokan general store.

Old Timer says The Freeman picture of the Riseley stone mill at West Hurley brought back memories of the old days. O.T. was reminded of a similar plant at Brodhead where John J. Boice managed the mill and yard for his brother, Hewitt Boice, who also had a bluestone dock along the Rondout Creek at Ponckhockie. They were local boys whose father, William V. Boice, set them up in the store business in Samsonville where General Samson and George Pratt, commander of the old 20th Regiment, had kept store in earlier years.

Mrs. Martin Schlotter and sister Helen Bowne of Saugerties were recent callers in Shokan.

A meeting of the town nursing committee is scheduled to take place Monday, April 12, at 1 p. m., in the Legion building for the purpose of making cancer pads and electing officers. The May 10 meeting will feature a guest speaker and the film Guard Your Heart.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sheeley and son, Junior, of South Olive, were local callers Friday. Ray is a member of the reservoir department automotive force.

Cub Pack 36 Meets; Entertainment Given

Saugerties, March 29 — The regularly scheduled meeting of Cub Pack 36 of St. Mary's Church was held Thursday night at St. Mary's school.

As the pack has only been recently organized a planned program was not presented at this time. However, the boys in the pack presented vocal entertainment and a regular business meeting was held.

Vincent de Stasio was registered as assistant cubmaster to Olaf Andreassen who serves the pack as cubmaster. Den mothers in attendance included Mrs. George Kervert, Jr., Mrs. Robert Duvernoy, Mrs. William Reilly, Mrs. Vernon Benjamin and Mrs. William Thornton.

Fifteen boys of the pack attended with parents. Larry Spatz announced that the next regular Pack meeting will be held the last Thursday in April.

Youth Council Plans Future Activities

Saugerties, March 29 — A variety of activities were planned Thursday night for the youth of Saugerties at the regular Saugerties Youth Council meeting held at the municipal building with Chairman Peter Williams, supervisor for the town of Saugerties presiding.

It was also brought out at the meeting that approval of incorporation had been received and that the official title and name of the group would be the Town of Saugerties Youth Council, Inc.

Mrs. Albert L. Giannotti of the Youth Activities Committee reported that a post-Easter dance is in the planning stage and has been tentatively scheduled for April 20 if the municipal auditorium is available for that date.

A variety of suggestions were made by various members of the council in regard to new activities for the youth of Saugerties. Among those were a hay ride in the fall to a grove on the Peter William's property where a picnic area could be set up and weinies could be roasted. Also suggested was the possibility of securing a rodeo for the summer entertainment of the young people. A suggestion was also made to make a weinie roast at Seamon Park a part of the program. Preliminary discussions were also held in regard to sponsoring a big Halloween program which would include a parade in costume and in the evening a dance.

Mrs. Giannotti, treasurer of the council gave her report as producer of the All-Youth Minstrel Show which was held two nights March 10 and 11. Her report made known the outstanding success of the program both financially and for the interest the show created for the youth of Saugerties. She reported that the net proceeds were $295.28 which will be used for equipment and also to promote other activities for the young people.

The group also voted to donate $75 toward equipment for the Babe Ruth League. Vernon Benjamin in charge of outdoor activities reported excellent results from the Youth Council Basketball League. He said that 26 games had been played and no casualties were experienced. Benjamin also reported on the problem of the skating pond which is to be black topped in order to allow roller skating. THERE was much excitement around town when there was a rumor that the old radio stand-by, "The Telephone Hour," was going TV. They were making a film, the story went, and the show would join "The Firestone Hour" in bringing good music to television.

I talked to the Telephone people—over the phone, of course—and it turns out that this is just a demonstration. The film is being made, with bass-baritone George London, and it will be shown over a closed circuit to see what it looks like. Further than that, nothing definite.

It may go TV, but not next week. It is, obviously, a long-distance project.

Join the movies and see the world. Ask Rita Gam—in a few years, this lovely lass has had all-expense trips to Africa, Germany and a quaint little town out west called Hollywood.

She's just back from Europe, where she made a thriller called "Night People." Germany was interesting, but North Africa—wow!

"I almost became a drug addict," she said. "I smoke a lot, and one day on location I ran out of cigarettes. A native offered me one of his, and I lit it. It tasted odd, and I said so. He gave me a big smile and said, 'Hashish.'"

In North Africa, too, Miss Gam discovered the joys of koos-koos for breakfast. That's what it sounded like, Koos-koos. It's quite a delicacy, if you like to wake up with a bang. Full of garlic and onions and other early-morning flavors. She's happy to be back in the land of bacon and eggs.

In her wanderings, she's discovered there's a big difference between reporters, and how they behave.

"In England, the press conference was polite and proper. They all asked intelligent questions, but the stories turned out to be Police Gazette stuff.

"In France, the reporters were rude. Their questions were personal and impertinent. But the stories were lovely and kind and charming.

"In Italy, there were 100 reporters at a press conference for me. Not one of them so much as asked me a question. They just drank. The next day, the stories were full of 'bella Rita' and such nice things."

Center Your Easter Dinner Around Traditional Ham

EASTER "BOUQUET" of taste and eye appeal for your dinner is composed of glazed ham, tiny white onions and green asparagus.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

In Chicago the other day, we sat down with Beth Bailey McLean, one of the outstanding food thinker-uppers in the country. Easter dinner was the topic.

Mrs. McLean, mother of two grown children, author of several books on cookery and director of Swift & Co. Home Economics Laboratory, plugs for a whole or half ham for the Easter bunny.

"Begin dinner with a frosted fresh fruit cup, then bring on the beautifully glazed ham accompanied by candied or butter-browned sweet potatoes, fresh or frozen green asparagus and baked tiny whole onions," she advises.

"An assortment of colorful crisp relishes will take care of the salad and, with hot buttered rolls, complete the main course.

For dessert, serve a pretty-as-springtime tart-and-sweet rhubarb-chiffon pie," she adds.

To add a special Easter touch to the table she suggests colorful hard-cooked eggs, made extra gay with a flower decal. Nest the eggs in shredded cellophane in paper baking cups of assorted colors. Use as a centerpiece, or provide one for each person as a garnish for the ham platter.

Quick and Easy

For a real ease of preparation, select a fully cooked ham, brown sugar-cured and slow-smoked over hardwoods. You can heat the ham fat-side-up on a rack in an open pan 10 minutes to the pound in a moderate overn (325 degrees F.) and then glaze.

Or, simply cut the fat surface of the fully cooked ham in diagonal lines to produce a diamond effect, dot each diamond with a whole clove and cover with honey and brown sugar, orange or apricot marmalade, or cranberry or currant jelly.

Put in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 15 minutes or until glazed a golden brown. Remove from the oven and serve. This fully cooked ham can be served after this quick glazing because, as the name implies, it is thoroughly cooked when purchased.

Easter Dinner

Watercress, clear chicken bouillin in cups, glazed ham, sweet potato and almond pudding, buttered white onions with parsley, buttered asparagus, soft rolls, butter or margarine, raw carrot sticks, cucumber sticks, celery, vanilla ice cream with crushed strawberries, tea, coffee, milk.

A Fowl Deed

Sterling, Kan. (AP)—Mrs. Logan Mahoney solved the case of the disappearing milk money. She had been leaving money for the milkman in a jar on her front porch. First a dollar bill disappeared. Then 60 cents vanished. The milkman said the jar was always empty when he arrived. Next day Mrs. Mahoney watched. Up to the jar waddled her two pet geese. They dipped their bills into the jar, carried off the money and then dropped it in the yard.

Death Backs Petition

San Diego, Calif. (AP)—Those signing a petition to have the city mark with white lines the street cross walks at 30th street and Adams avenue, included James McMahon, 78. Later, McMahon was hit and killed by an automobile while crossing at the intersection. The city council was then told that crosswalk markings and lighting would be placed there immediately by the street department.

Youngest Organist?

Broadus, Mont. (AP)—This small southeastern Montana community claims the youngest church organist in Montana and possibly the United States. He is Haroldie Miller, 10, who first played at St. David's Church last Christmas Eve. Church members liked his music and asked him to stay on as regular organist. Haroldie also is a tap dancer and plays the drums for the school band.

Birds Stage Battle

Benavente, Portugal (AP) — A pitched battle between swallows and sparrows, for the last year's nests of the former, has ended in victory for the proprietors in Benavente village. When the swallows returned the other day, they found that sparrows had occupied their nests under the eaves of the local presbytery. Joining together, the returned emigrants attacked the nests. The sparrows, rallying their numbers, put up a staunch fight, while scores of villagers stood in the square watching and cheering on the swallows, until they finally drove the usurpers away.

Fire Plug Parking

Cincinnati (AP)—A Cincinnati businessman solved his parking problem by using his own fire plug. He found the old plug at the waterworks. Every day the porter at his business establishment would roll out the plug about 6 a. m. After his boss parked, he would bring it in. He got away with it for months. Then a policeman got curious about a fire plug which sometimes wasn't there. He doused the false fire plug idea right then and there.

Only one, a youth, was strongly opposed. A couple of days later he was sent to jail for allowing two companions to drive recklessly in his car on two different occasions.

The contests that have been held in the school to determine the champion spellers have created interest and enthusiasm. The ten members of the school team are conducting skull practice. They anticipate proving to parents that children today can spell better than students of yesteryear.

The spelling contest is in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the New York State Department of Education. Dr. Lewis Wilson, commissioner of education, has requested all of the schools in the state to dramatize the development of the modern concept of a type of secondary education adapted to the varying needs and interests of boys and girls throughout the state.

Twelve organizations contributed to a fund to purchase a typewriter and equipment for Miss Maria Horvers of Port Ewen, who has been confined to a wheelchair for two years. Mrs. Clifford Davis, Jr., president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of American Legion Unit 1298, Town of Esopus; Mrs. Robert Graves, treasurer; Mrs. Joseph Stadt, past president, chairman of Child Welfare and Americanism Committees; and Mrs. Lester Sanford, Rehabilitation Committee chairman and past county chairman, who is handing the typewriter to Miss Horvers, were responsible for the drive for funds. (Freeman photo)

Typewriting Lessons Will Help Teen-Age Victim of Paralysis

Twelve organizations in Port Ewen contributed to give Maria Horvers her first step toward a normal life by donating funds to purchase a typewriter, ribbons, and other supplies for her. Miss Horvers has been confined to a wheel-chair for two years and has been unable to participate in school or social activities.

She is a member of the Church of the Presentation Girl Scout Troop, which meets at her home so that she may share in the activities. Since she cannot attend regular classes, she has been tutored at home by Mrs. Mabel Coons. She has begun to learn typewriting as a beginning toward a career as a stenographer.

Paralyzed from the waist down, Maria will go to the Haverstraw Reconstruction School shortly, to learn to manipulate the chair and to take beneficial treatments. On her return, she expects to be able to be improved enough to join other girls of her age in certain hobbies and in attending some social functions.

Leading off in the drive to help finance the typewriter was American Legion Unit 1298, Ladies' Auxiliary, Town of Esopus, under the direction of Mrs. Clifford Davis, president. Mrs. Joseph Stadt was chosen chairman of the project, and contacted the heads of various clubs and societies in Port Ewen.

The response was quickly forthcoming, with the following other organizations contributing toward the typewriter for Maria: Holy Name Society; Church of the Presentation Women's Club; Priscilla Society, Altar Guild of the Methodist Church; Port Ewen School Association; Dorcas Society, Reformed Church; Ladies' Auxiliary of the Port Ewen Fire Department; Port Ewen Home Bureau; Ever Ready Club; Town of Esopus Post 1298 American Legion; and several members of the Port Ewen Couples Club.

Alumni to Celebrate Universal Notre Dame Night at Nelson House

Universal Notre Dame Night will be celebrated by the Mid-Hudson Valley Notre Dame Club Tuesday, April 27, at the Nelson House in Poughkeepsie.

This is a night set apart every year by the Notre Dame Alumni clubs in cooperation with the University, so that Notre Dame men throughout the world can join together with their families and friends to renew old acquaintances and to pay tribute to the educational, cultural and religious accomplishments of the University.

It is the custom of the Alumni clubs on that night to honor a person in the club's area who has been outstanding in his life and whose accomplishments have been in keeping with the highest principles and aims of the University. Such a person is designated and honored by the club as the Notre Dame Man of the Year.

This year, the Mid-Hudson Valley Club plans to honor as Man of the Year, Dr. James E. McCambridge of Poughkeepsie, one of the founders of St. Francis Hospital, an outstanding medical man in this area and father of a Notre Dame graduate. He is a worthy successor to such previously honored men as the late Judge John T. Loughran of Kingston and William J. Blake of Newburgh.

The principal speaker will be Edward W. Krause, athletic director of the University of Notre Dame. Mr. Krause, an outstanding all-American football and basketball player himself in the early 30's at Notre Dame, has become a nationally known speaker over the past years, and is in demand by clubs and outstanding civic and educational groups.

An open invitation to the public to attend this dinner has been extended by the committee. Information regarding tickets may be secured from Robert Ortale, John Flanagan, or Henry J. Fisher.

Vermont History And Mohawk Indians Subject of Papers

Vermont, first state to join the Union after the original thirteen colonies, was the subject of the paper read by Mrs. Adam H. Porter at the Monday evening meeting of the Twentieth Century Club. The group met at the home of Mrs. William Eltinge.

The history of the state, its struggle and growth was depicted throught the paper. Vermont claimed its independence in 1777 after first having been claimed as a part of New Hampshire and later as a part of New York, Mrs. Porter recalled.

The country stores, covered bridges, ski slopes, lakes, ponds and springs were colorfully woven into the description of the Green Mountain state.

Mrs. Elmer Van Tassell read the second paper, which was on Indians. It vividly described life among the Mohawks who once roamed Ulster county. The history of the white man's early relations with the red man was traced.

Mrs. Van Tassell also told of the legends, dialects, religion and customs of the Indians.

RECEIVING A GIFT WHEN OTHERS ARE PRESENT

A reader writes as follows: "I never know what to do when someone hands me a gift in the presence of others. Should I keep it for later, or open it immediately and, if it happens to be food, must I pass it around the room?"

To show proper appreciation to the giver, the rule is to open it at once. If it is flowers you, of course, open it quickly and put them in water at once. If it is a box of candy, or a basket of fruit, you will seem ungenerous as well as unappreciative unless you remove the top or the lid of the box and offer some to everyone.

The Clothes of the Ring Bearer

Dear Mrs. Post: My four-year-old son has been asked to be the ring bearer at my brother's forthcoming wedding. The men in the wedding party will be wearing tuxedos. The bride-to-be insists that my son wear the same as they. I think a four-year-old child will look ridiculous in a tuxedo and am definitely opposed to it. Must he be dressed the same as the men? Also, who is supposed to buy the white satin pillow that my son is to carry?

Answer: I can hardly believe that whoever suggested having a tuxedo made for a young child could have meant it seriously. He should wear a child's white party suit and walk alone carrying the ring securely fastened in the center of a small white cushion supplied by the bride's family.

No Time for Criticism

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's father died recently and at the funeral parlor relatives and friends came over to me to express their sympathy. I was seated at the time and remained so. Will you please tell me if I should have gotten up to acknowledge their sympathy?

Answer: Although it might have been more polite to stand when people greeted you, I don't think anyone could criticize you at a time like that.

Miss Gloria Massa, organist of St. James Methodist Church of Kingston, was the organist for the performance of the oratorio. Soloists were John Matthews, Collette Sonnenberg, Donald R. Romme and June Crosby.

Onteora Parents Hold Spelling Practices

The Onteora P-TA has conducted secret practices for the spelling bee to be held in the school auditorium April 28, it was learned today.

Several association members met during the past week in the school and conducted a written test for various members trying out for the spelling team. The spelling team is being formed under the direction of Herbert Epstein, Mt. Tremper, president of the local association; and Harry Allen of Pine Hill, president- elect.

The contests that have been held in the school to determine the champion spellers have created interest and enthusiasm. The ten members of the school team are conducting skull practice. They anticipate proving to parents that children today can spell better than students of yesteryear.

The spelling contest is in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the New York State Department of Education. Dr. Lewis Wilson, commissioner of education, has requested all of the schools in the state to dramatize the development of the modern concept of a type of secondary education adapted to the varying needs and interests of boys and girls throughout the state.

Organizations Donate Typewriter to Port Ewen Girl

Twelve organizations contributed to a fund to purchase a typewriter and equipment for Miss Maria Horvers of Port Ewen, who has been confined to a wheelchair for two years. Mrs. Clifford Davis, Jr., president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of American Legion Unit 1298, Town of Esopus; Mrs. Robert Graves, treasurer; Mrs. Joseph Stadt, past president, chairman of Child Welfare and Americanism Committees; and Mrs. Lester Sanford, Rehabilitation Committee chairman and past county chairman, who is handing the typewriter to Miss Horvers, were responsible for the drive for funds. (Freeman photo)

Typewriting Lessons Will Help Teen-Age Victim of Paralysis

Twelve organizations in Port Ewen contributed to give Maria Horvers her first step toward a normal life by donating funds to purchase a typewriter, ribbons, and other supplies for her. Miss Horvers has been confined to a wheel-chair for two years and has been unable to participate in school or social activities.

She is a member of the Church of the Presentation Girl Scout Troop, which meets at her home so that she may share in the activities. Since she cannot attend regular classes, she has been tutored at home by Mrs. Mabel Coons. She has begun to learn typewriting as a beginning toward a career as a stenographer.

Paralyzed from the waist down, Maria will go to the Haverstraw Reconstruction School shortly, to learn to manipulate the chair and to take beneficial treatments. On her return, she expects to be able to be improved enough to join other girls of her age in certain hobbies and in attending some social functions.

Leading off in the drive to help finance the typewriter was American Legion Unit 1298, Ladies' Auxiliary, Town of Esopus, under the direction of Mrs. Clifford Davis, president. Mrs. Joseph Stadt was chosen chairman of the project, and contacted the heads of various clubs and societies in Port Ewen.

The response was quickly forthcoming, with the following other organizations contributing toward the typewriter for Maria: Holy Name Society; Church of the Presentation Women's Club; Priscilla Society, Altar Guild of the Methodist Church; Port Ewen School Association; Dorcas Society, Reformed Church; Ladies' Auxiliary of the Port Ewen Fire Department; Port Ewen Home Bureau; Ever Ready Club; Town of Esopus Post 1298 American Legion; and several members of the Port Ewen Couples Club.

A real community spirit was shown in the combined assistance given to help the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Horvers of Port Ewen.

Alumni to Celebrate Universal Notre Dame Night at Nelson House

Universal Notre Dame Night will be celebrated by the Mid-Hudson Valley Notre Dame Club Tuesday, April 27, at the Nelson House in Poughkeepsie.

This is a night set apart every year by the Notre Dame Alumni clubs in cooperation with the University, so that Notre Dame men throughout the world can join together with their families and friends to renew old acquaintances and to pay tribute to the educational, cultural and religious accomplishments of the University.

It is the custom of the Alumni clubs on that night to honor a person in the club's area who has been outstanding in his life and whose accomplishments have been in keeping with the highest principles and aims of the University. Such a person is designated and honored by the club as the Notre Dame Man of the Year.

This year, the Mid-Hudson Valley Club plans to honor as Man of the Year, Dr. James E. McCambridge of Poughkeepsie, one of the founders of St. Francis Hospital, an outstanding medical man in this area and father of a Notre Dame graduate. He is a worthy successor to such previously honored men as the late Judge John T. Loughran of Kingston and William J. Blake of Newburgh.

The principal speaker will be Edward W. Krause, athletic director of the University of Notre Dame. Mr. Krause, an outstanding all-American football and basketball player himself in the early 30's at Notre Dame, has become a nationally known speaker over the past years, and is in demand by clubs and outstanding civic and educational groups.

An open invitation to the public to attend this dinner has been extended by the committee. Information regarding tickets may be secured from Robert Ortale, John Flanagan, or Henry J. Fisher.

Good Grooming Is Featured During Nursing Meeting

Woodstock, March 29—An inspiring program, which included discussions on the components of good grooming, from basic health to style, was presented Thursday afternoon at the Health Center by the Woodstock public health nursing committee. The guest speakers were Miss Anne Cassidy, public health nurse, Mrs. Peggy Jerominek and Mrs. Harry Alpern.

Miss Cassidy introduced the subject from a health standpoint, observing that beauty is not skin deep, but "goes very deep into the cells of our blood stream. Everyone who has good health can be beautiful—that is basic." She urged that everyone have a yearly physical examination for the detection of illness in its incipiency, and went on to stress the importance of good nutrition, cleanliness, adequate rest and the ability to relax. All these are the elements of positive good health, mental, physical and spiritual well-being.

"Worry," she pointed out, "is one of the great ills of our civilization today. Stop worrying, face a problem, do what you can to solve it and forget it."

She concluded her discussion with a demonstration of good posture and how to achieve it, and finally stressed the necessity of eyeglasses for those who need them. "They are more attractive than squint marks around the eyes."

Mrs. Jerominek discussed hair and skin problems, offered hints on shampooing, skin care and hair styling.

"With skin aids and today's cosmetics," she noted, "there is no longer such thing as a homely woman. With proper make-up you can be as glamorous as a movie star, if you take the time to work at it and think about it." She underscored the importance of soap and water in daily beauty care, attention given to hands, nails and feet and the lift to be derived from experimenting with new hair styles after careful study of one's own facial contours.

Talks on Clothes

Bringing the discussion into the realm of clothes and style, Mrs. Alpern also spoke of the importance of good posture and of the basic necessity of a well-fitted foundation garment. In making clothes work for your sense of well-being, she asserted that it was highly important for a woman to dress up at home "in clothing convenient to the job, whether its house cleaning, cooking or gardening.

She asked her listeners to avoid the habit of slipping into a style rut. "If you are accustomed to severely tailored clothes, try changing your style for a soft, relaxed appearance. However, the exaggerated styles we see frequently in the fashion magazines are often neither practical or appropriate."

Finally, she said that people should express themselves in their clothes, "select the things you like, and try something you thought you might not have liked."

A decision was made at the business meeting prior to the program, that the committee would sponsor a Saturday evening dance to be given by the members of Girl Scout Troops 74 and 12, during May at the Woodstock School. Further details concerning the dance will be announced.

In response to a request by Mrs. Victor Busch, chairman of the committee, six members signed for duty with the Woodstock Ground Observer Corps. Other members who would like to assist are requested to call Mrs. Busch at Woodstock 9403.

It was reported by Miss Cassidy that 11 children had been seen at the March clinic.

Following a report on the loan closet by Mrs. Clarence Snyder, a contribution was made by Mrs. Ferdinand Heene for articles needed in the closet.

Mrs. Charles King reported that plans for the summer recreation program for girls were progressing, and that full details concerning the program will be announced later.

Mrs. Busch read several letters expressing the appreciation of the committee to the Little Mothers' Aid Association in New York, for the gift of $500 recently received to carry on the committee's work with children in the township.

Committee Appointed For July 4 Program

Woodstock, March 29—At the monthly meeting of American Legion Post 1026, Thursday night, a committee was formed for the annual Fourth of July fireworks display. Serving on the committee are: Benjamin Buley, chairman; Henry Grazier, Everett Cashdollar, William Melville and Lester Avery.

A resolution was passed that the Legion Post would present some music stands to the Woodstock Elementary School. They are in the process of being ordered by William MacReady who will present them to the school.

A discussion on Civilian Defense took place, and it was announced that the Legion will undertake its share of the work in organizing the Ground Observer Corps in this village, and will also plan a further meeting with Major William Plowden of the White Plains Filter Center.

Plans are also under discussion for the Memorial Day ceremonies, details of which will be announced later.

The regular monthly meeting date has been changed back to the original time of the last Wednesday of the month.

Members voted to purchase a television set to be installed in the Legion Hall. A sum of money has already been appropriated for that purpose.

At the 35th anniversary dinner of American Legion, held Saturday night, at the Legion Hall, there were 35 members present. The Legion was presented by the Auxiliary with a sign for the building, depicting a blue ribbon with gold lettering, saying American Legion Post 1026, Woodstock, N. Y. The sign is 10 feet long.

Motor Club Accepts Four New Members

Woodstock, March 29 — Four new members were elected to membership in the Woodstock Motor Club at its regular meeting Sunday night in the club house on the Recreation Field. They were John Sauer, of Saugerties; Bob Phiffer, of Glenerie; Gus Hovy, of Kingston; and Billie Lifer, of Kingston.

The by-laws of the club have been approved by the membership, and will now be made up in book form for members.

A discussion took place concerning the road rally to be held May 2, to which members only are eligible. Members will have their choice of a beef or ham dinner at the Maverick Inn, for which they have to make their reservations and pay for the dinner at the meeting of the club Sunday, April 25.

The number of passengers in each car will be controlled by the lawful capacity per car on the road.

Noblesville, Ind. (AP) — The farm country in Brazil is getting to know 4-S clubs the way Yankee children know 4-H clubs, because O. V. Winks passed through. Winks is back on his job as Hamilton county agricultural agent after a two-year leave of absence to teach Brazilians the "American way" of planting and tilling crops. Remembering 4-H clubs, Winks organized 30 such clubs in the South American farmlands. To translate the four H's — head, hand, heart and health — into the Brazilian Portuguese, he used four S's — saber, senior, server and saude, which stand for know, feel, serve and health.

Wie Viel ist der Dachshund in dem Fenster?

That's easy. Ask us a hard one, like "How much is it going to cost to heat my home?"

Well, what kind of insulation do you have? How warm do you like to keep your house? How efficient is your heating plant?

When the Central Hudson heating expert knows all the answers to these things, he can give you an amazingly accurate estimate of your fuel bill. And you'll be delighted at how inexpensive it will be!

You see, regardless of other factors, Natural Gas is the cleanest and most efficient fuel on the market today. This means that you get more heat for the amount of fuel burned with less waste products to coat boilers and get into the air (dirtying the housewife's curtains, walls and furniture!)

Another big advantage of Natural Gas is that it burns silently — no rumble or roar when the heat turns on.

And last but not least, Natural Gas Heating Equipment, with very few moving parts, is far cheaper to install and will far outlast other types of heating equipment, plus requiring an absolute minimum of servicing.

All Costs Considered, You Can't Beat Gas House Heat!

If you are considering the replacement or conversion of your present heating plant, or are buying a new home, a Central Hudson Representative will be delighted to give you full information about Natural Gas Heat. There's absolutely no obligation!

Five Teams Represented At First City Baseball League Meeting

Six-Team League Appears Likely; Murphy Bows Out

Secretary Misasi Also Not Available

Prospects for a six-team City Baseball League are the best in years, following last night's initial meeting attended by five organizations.

The teams represented were:
Jones Dairy—John Schatzel.
Indians—Charles Havlin.
Doblers—Joe Hoffman.
Shokan—Bill Jackson.
Colonial Merchants—

While there was a feeling of high optimism among the officials, the league finds itself looking for a new president and secretary-scorekeeper. And one of its most prominent personalities will be missing when the 1954 campaign rolls around.

Murphy Bows Out

Eddie Murphy, who guided the league through several perilous seasons, confirmed earlier reports that he would not be a candidate for another term as president. No amount of coaxing by the league brass could make the former pitcher change his mind.

John Misasi, the secretary-scorekeeper, also let it be known that he would not be able to serve in that capacity this year.

Unless there is a last minute change of mind—and that is a distinct possibility — William "Pucker" Davis, the fabled pitcher and manager will not be on the scene. Davis, who did not attend the meeting, sent word that he would not pilot the Merchants this season.

Shokan New Entry

The holdover teams are the championship Jones Dairy nine, Doblers, Merchants and Indians.

Shokan is a new entry. A spokesman also represented Bigando's Market but made no commitments.

A proposed New Paltz franchise failed to materialize. Several days ago, a New Paltz manager made inquiries about a spot in the local league but he was not present last night.

The next meeting will be called by the chair. Meanwhile, they're looking for that new president and secretary.

Discuss Plans For Umpires Organization

A meeting to organize a mid-Hudson division of the New York State Baseball Umpires Association is planned Saturday, April 3, 7:30 p. m., at the American Legion building in Kingston.

William Shayes, of Albany, president of the state association, will outline plans of organization.

Notices have been sent to all known umpires in the area, but the meeting is open to anyone who is interested in umpiring.

Baseball umpires are the only sports officials not belonging to any organization in this area. It is believed that such a group in the area would elim' te many of the headaches at come up when attempting to get umpires for scholastic games and the many leagues now in operation in this district.

Card Hurlers Boost Hopes For Pennant

By ED CORRIGAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

It seems incongrous that a team that finished 23 games back of the pennant winner should be considered a threat the next year.

Yet, the St. Louis Cardinals—although they're not talking pennant by any means—certainly are thinking along those lines. And despite the fact that they can send shivers up and down the opposition's spine with such block-busters as Stan Musial, Red Schoendienst and Enos Slaughter, their pitching will have to carry the load if they hope to overhaul the Brooklyn Dodgers and fight off the Milwaukee Braves.

As of today, the Cards show a far from spectacular 13-8 record in the Grapefruit League. But Eddie Stanky's pitchers have been coming through handsomely and even in some losses they've looked good.

Hurlers Are Hit

In the last six games, the Card hurlers have allowed only 14 runs, a little more than two per game. They've been supported by 18 runs for those six games and nary a home run. The last round-tripper by a Card was Musial's more than a week ago.

But with Vic Raschi obtained from the New York Yankees (to work on the Dodgers), Harvey Haddix (with an 0.50 era in the exhibition loop, Gerry Staley (an 18-game winner last year) and Tom Poholsky (just back from the army), who got credit for yesterday's 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox, the Cards will be no patsies.

Owner Gussie Busch has spent a lot of money to improve the club but there are many question marks. Tom Alston, for example, the long-ball-hitting first baseman from San Diego, strikes out a lot, and opposing pitchers are discovering that he has trouble hitting anything except a low pitch because of his tendency to golf the ball.

La Starza 4-1 Over Cockell

London, March 30 (AP)—Roland La Starza and Don Cockell, a pair of top heavyweights who seek a crack at champion Rocky Marciano, meet tonight at Earls Court Arena on a tripleheader fight card.

Along with the 10-round feature, a sellout crowd of 18,000 is due to see former world middleweight champion Randy Turpin meet an unbeaten Swede from Goteburg named Olle Bengtsson and Yolande Pompey battle Ivano Fontana, an Italian light heavyweight.

For the price of one ticket, the bill includes a lot of talent.

La Starza, the former City College of New York student, is the fourth-ranked heavyweight in the world and has been installed as a 2-1 favorite to whip his tubby opponent, a combination man—fighter-farmer-blacksmith.

Cockell, champion of Britain's sad corps of heavyweights, usually weighs 210 for a fight although he is only five-feet 10 inches tall.

Racing

Miami, Fla. — Amphiblen ($27.30) won the Lucky Me Purse at Gulfstream Park.

Laurel, Md.—King Jolie ($3.00) captured the Georgetown Purse at Laurel.

Lincoln, R. I.—Dr. Moore ($8.20) took the West Warwick purse at Lincoln Downs.

Jackson Wants Rocky After Bucceroni Kayo

New York, March 30 (AP)—A national unknown until two months ago, Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson today sought a shot at heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano and dared any other leading contender to fight him. And nobody laughed.

The tireless, non-stop punching, 22-year old New York Negro became an outstanding challenger last night by stopping Dangerous Dan Bucceroni, third-ranking heavyweight contender, in 1:58 of the sixth round at Eastern Parkway Arena.

Referee Al Berl halted the massacre as the lanky, 2-1 favored Philadelphian reeled around the ring with his right eye almost shut and with blood oozing from a cut over the same orb. The 192-pound Bucceroni, stopped for the second time in his career, never fell but he was close to exhaustion when Berl intervened.

Bucceroni punched himself out against the relentless 191½-pound Jackson who kept coming without regard for Dan's vaunted wallop. The Sunday punch that had flattened 30 of Bucky's previous 49 opponents (46 wins, 3 losses) meant nothing to the unorthodox, superbly conditioned Jackson.

The "animal," as they call Jackson at Stillman's gym, roared back after every one of Dan's volleys with a flurry of punches that had the Philadelphian befuddled. Left hooks, left jabs, overhand and underhand rights, uppercuts and double uppercuts — Tommy threw them all and from every direction.

Loses Big Bout

Bucceroni risked an almost certain September title shot for a $10,000 guarantee against Jackson. The gamble backfired disastrously.

Hard-hitting Dan was the third "name" fighter in two months to bow before the buzz-saw attack of the unschooled, unlettered youngster who learned to fight by fighting. He said he never went to school but "my mother taught me to read."

A pro fighter only 20 months, the 6-2½ bundle of energy earned a No. 7 ranking by stopping Rex Layne in six in January and by trouncing Clarence Henry in ten (Jackson's first ten) on March 1.

SPORTS

Wanna know the best kept sports secret in town? The Kingston basketball tournament now in progress at the municipal auditorium.

Here is a 16-team classic with the best basketball talent in the area practically begging for public support. The calibre of ball played to date has been sensational.

Does the meagre attendance prove there are too many other distractions, like TV maybe? Or has spring fever ensconced itself among our citizenry?

Whatever the reasons, it seems regrettable that such high grade basketball talent toils in virtual privacy at the midtown arena.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

No less than 98 schools within a 50-mile radius have been invited to the third annual New Paltz Relays on May 8. State Conservation Department piscatorial experts report that following the relatively mild winter and slow run-off of snow water, stream conditions across the state look favorable for good early season fishing. Mild weather also favored trout stocking and the Department's hatchery men report that an early start was made this year in the annual job of releasing trout in the state's 15,000 miles of stocked trout waters. Aided by sportsmen cooperators, the Department's fish culturists will have liberated 700,000 brook trout, 1,550,000 brown trout, 325,000 rainbow trout and 200,000 lake trout in suitable waters of the state. Remember the date, men, April 10. Don't forget your parkas and high boots.

• Of Men and Mice:

The early bird golfers turned out en masse Saturday at Twaalfskill. John D. Schoonmaker took his first lesson, and other notables like Dr. Rodney Ball, Ernest Schirmer, Doc Forst, Maurice Hand, Al Naudain, the former Palenville bomber, Dr. Douw Meyers, Gus Modjeska, Jack McCabe, James A. Dwyer, Charles J. Turck and others assaulted the soggy fairways. Hand hit a couple of drives off the first tee he'll have trouble matching in mid-July. Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick, who is recovering nicely from a recent operation, and J. Richard Miller were among the clubhouse guests. Alex Gerlak, the pro, said the unusual March activity reminded him of a golf story: About the player who holed out on the 18th for a score well over 100 and then turned to his caddy and said, "I'll never be able to hold my head up again." "Oh, I don't know, sir," came the ready reply. "You've been doing it all afternoon."

• Of Men and Mice:

Our Tom Shultis of Bearsville wasn't such a bad weather prophet after all. His prediction for another mild and open winter was almost perfect, although it brought no great comfort to the skiers. Except for a splurge in late December and early January, skiing generally wasn't up to 1952-53 volume. Dick Bezemer and Skip Broadhead of Kingston High and other All-DUSO selections will be cited at the third annual NFA basketball dinner tonight at the Hotel Newburgh. Principal speakers will be Doc Blanchard, the old Mr. Inside of Army football history, and Coach Ken Norton of Manhattan.

The sports department has received several hundred schedules from the New York Yankees. Individuals or organizations can have them in quantity by request. Giant fans, elated by the brilliant spring training heroics of Willie Mays and the gang, won't cotton to Murray Olderman's pre-season estimate of Durocher's Dandies: "Between you'n me, the Giants have too many "ifs" for their number of "buts." . . .

Cavarretta Is First Managerial Casualty; Stan Hack Successor

Dallas, March 30 (AP) — Phil Cavarretta and the Chicago Cubs parted company after 20 years today and another former Chicago baseball idol—Stan Hack—stepped in as manager.

Cavarretta, a star player for 17 years but unable to win as manager in two full seasons, was relieved of his post here yesterday after the Cubs had dropped their 15th spring exhibition game in 20 starts. It was the first managerial change in the major leagues this year.

Wid Matthews, director of playing personnel of the Chicago organization, told Cavarretta he was to change places with Hack, who has been manager of the Los Angeles club in the Pacific Coast League. Cavarretta balked and said he would seek a major league connection elsewhere.

Matthews insisted that Phil wasn't fired but Cavarretta had a different view. "I come home and get fired," he said sadly. Cavarretta now lives in Dallas and operates a children's amusement park here.

Wrigley Gives Hint

Matthews gave no reason for the action other than that it was "for the good of all concerned." But at Phoenix, Ariz., Phil K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, said "This year when he picked everyone but us to finish in the first division, he was licked before he started. He said he did not have the kind of ball players he wanted. He had sort of given up on the boys, so to speak, feeling that they were not pennant material. Well, maybe not, but they could be with the will to win."

Hack Surprised

Hack, who is flying to Shreveport, La., to take over as manager tomorrow when the Cubs arrive there to play the Baltimore Orioles, said at Los Angeles that he was surprised that he had been picked. "All I can say is that I'm going to pick up where Phil left off," Hack declared. "I will add this: It is wonderful to get back to Chicago where I spent my entire major league career."

Today the Cubs play Baltimore here and Coach Bob Sheffing will be in charge of the club. Baltimore beat Chicago 4-3 yesterday with a rally in the ninth.

Matthews said Cavarretta was offered the same salary at Los Angeles that he was receiving from the Cubs and that he would be paid his full 1954 salary although refusing to go to the Pacific Coast League club.

"I was really shocked," Cavarretta said at his home here. "Matthews told me right after the ball game. He just said Stan was coming in to take over the ball club. And if I wanted to stay with the Cub organization, I could take over Los Angeles. I just couldn't see going out to Los Angeles. I thought I had done a good job with the material I had. So I get fired in spring training."

Phil Shocked

While Cavarretta said he was shocked at being relieved of the job, Wrigley said at Phoenix that it had been discussed between all parties concerned for nearly two weeks and came to a head in Dallas.

Matthews said "we did all in our power to convince Phil, a fine boy, that he should remain in the organization. There have been managerial exchanges like this before. Bill McKechnie and Billy Southworth once did it and McKechnie returned to the majors."

Cavarretta, 37, became manager of the Cubs in mid-season of 1951, replacing Frank Frisch. His club was fifth in 1952 and seventh last year. Hack, 47, finished his playing career in 1947 and managed Des Moines in the Western League and Springfield, Mass., in the International League before going to Los Angeles.

Five Teams Represented At First City Baseball League Meeting

Six-Team League Appears Likely; Murphy Bows Out

Secretary Misasi Also Not Available

Prospects for a six-team City Baseball League are the best in years, following last night's initial meeting attended by five organizations.

The teams represented were:
Jones Dairy—John Schatzel.
Indians—Charles Havlin.
Doblers—Joe Hoffman.
Shokan—Bill Jackson.
Colonial Merchants—

While there was a feeling of high optimism among the officials, the league finds itself looking for a new president and secretary-scorekeeper. And one of its most prominent personalities will be missing when the 1954 campaign rolls around.

Murphy Bows Out

Eddie Murphy, who guided the league through several perilous seasons, confirmed earlier reports that he would not be a candidate for another term as president. No amount of coaxing by the league brass could make the former pitcher change his mind.

John Misasi, the secretary-scorekeeper, also let it be known that he would not be able to serve in that capacity this year.

Unless there is a last minute change of mind—and that is a distinct possibility — William "Pucker" Davis, the fabled pitcher and manager will not be on the scene. Davis, who did not attend the meeting, sent word that he would not pilot the Merchants this season.

Shokan New Entry

The holdover teams are the championship Jones Dairy nine, Doblers, Merchants and Indians.

Shokan is a new entry. A spokesman also represented Bigando's Market but made no commitments.

A proposed New Paltz franchise failed to materialize. Several days ago, a New Paltz manager made inquiries about a spot in the local league but he was not present last night.

The next meeting will be called by the chair. Meanwhile, they're looking for that new president and secretary.

Discuss Plans For Umpires Organization

A meeting to organize a mid-Hudson division of the New York State Baseball Umpires Association is planned Saturday, April 3, 7:30 p. m., at the American Legion building in Kingston.

William Shayes, of Albany, president of the state association, will outline plans of organization.

Notices have been sent to all known umpires in the area, but the meeting is open to anyone who is interested in umpiring.

Baseball umpires are the only sports officials not belonging to any organization in this area. It is believed that such a group in the area would eliminate many of the headaches that come up when attempting to get umpires for scholastic games and the many leagues now in operation in this district.

Tab Canadiens Over Bruins

(By The Associated Press)

The powerful Montreal Canadiens, winners of the National Hockey League Stanley Cup last year, ruled heavy favorites over the Boston Bruins in the fourth game of the current semi-final series at Boston tonight.

Montreal, holding a 3-0 lead and needing only a victory to gain a berth in the finals, had found the Bruins tough during the regular season. In the 14 meetings between the two clubs, the Canadiens won six times and lost four. Four games ended in ties.

In the other semi-final, the Toronto Maple Leafs entertain the Detroit Red Wings. The pennant winning Wings lead 2-1 in the best-of-7 series.

Gordie Howe, the NHL leading scorer during the regular season, who required three stitches over his left eye after last Saturday's game, with Ted Lindsay and Dutch Riebel.

Babe Yoselevitz, smallest player on the Brandeis University basketball team, succeeds Ernie Helmrich, the second smallest player, as next year's captain. Helmrich is 5 feet 9½. Yoselevitz is 5 feet 9.

Three New Teams Set For Tournament Debut

HUSBAND-WIFE TEAM: Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Aitken, formerly of Lexington, handle the lines behind a pair of pacers on the Saratoga Raceway training track. Here Mrs. Aitken handles Old Grand-Dad, owned by Charles B. Kendall Jr. of Greenwich, while Aitken reins Miss Cheerful, property of William Cassaro and Sam Messano of Gloversville.

The last of six seeded teams—McAuleys of Poughkeepsie—and two newcomers, Monticello Chiefs and Hudson K of C, make their Kingston tournament debut tonight at the municipal auditorium.

Lincoln Park Inn of the YMCA League, 72-66 winners over Hudson Savoias on opening night, will test the crack McAuleys at 7:30 p. m.

A little more than an hour later, George McElroy and Andy Murphy present the Monticello Chiefs and Hudson Caseys.

McAuleys are one of the strongest squads in Dutchess county and will have such standouts as Richie Moran, Bob Mastin, the three Murphys—Matt, Tim and Tom—and Bob McKenna.

Moran ranks among the best scorers in the fast Poughkeepsie city league.

Former DUSO Aces

Monticello has a collection of former DUSO League performers like Lenny Schwartz, Mort Kaplan, Norm Culligan and Andy McCullough. Bob Diehl rounds out the roster. The Chiefs also moved into Orange county to pick up a pair of cuties in Jay Decker, who was a fabulous high school scorer at Walden High and high scoring Bill Baker of Goshen.

Not much is known of the Knights of Columbus strength but tournament officials predict they will show more than the Ericksons.

Key Games Thursday

A pair of key games is scheduled Thursday between Pine Plains Bombardiers and Sickler's Delivery at 8:30 and Valley Gardens against the speedy Otisville combine at 7:30.

The eventual tournament winner could emerge from that quartet.

No games are scheduled Friday.

Sportsmen Meet

Marbletown Sportsmen's Club meets Thursday, April 1. Refreshments will be served and a 30-minute color film entitled "Fishing in Alaska" will be shown.

Newburgh Academy won the crown with a score of 2354. Middletown High placed third with 2309.

Kingston opened fast with 827, then shot 763 and 745. Al Wood rolled 511.

ABC Champs Fizzle With 2826 Series

Seattle, March 30 (AP) — The American Bowling Congress observed "Detroit Day" at the 51st annual tournament yesterday with teams from the Motor City taking over 7th and 10th places in the open team division standings and individual Detroit bowlers figuring in other changes in top rankings.

While the defending team champion, Pfeiffers Beer of Detroit, was having a bad night, Maple Lanes Recreation held up honors of the Michigan City, rolling a 2874 which gave them 7th place in the open division. The Pfeiffers obviously off form, rolled a 2826 which squeezed them into a 10th place berth.

Don Carter, all star match game champion, didn't disappoint the crowd of 3,000—largest ever to watch a bowling match in Seattle. He rolled a 611 series on 234 and 223 games after a 194 opening round that cost him his chance for his 13th straight 200 or plus game in ABC play.

Two 19-year-olds led Detroit entries into the standings columns yesterday afternoon.

Don Glinski, an unheralded tool and die apprentice, copped first place in the singles event standings with a 674 score on games of 224-245-250. He displaced Jim Nelson of Portland, Ore., from the No. 1 spot. Nelson's 665 tally had stood for the best since the Tourney's second day.

George O'Donnell, rookie pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates, was the "rookie of the year" in the Pacific Coast League in 1953.

In his rookie year for the Cardinals in 1953, Ray Jablonski played in all of his team's 157 games.

Joe Mitchell's 672 Slam High for City Keglers; Rose Schatzel Hits 578

Joe Mitchell, a man who experiments with many grips and deliveries, came up with the right combination in the City Minor League last night.

The East Kingston trundler knocked off a rousing 266 solo and 672 series to lead the city's pinmen. His other games were 221 and 185. He had a "700" set going at the end of two games before he ran into splits.

Charlie Grunenwald stoked a 235 single and Frankie Bruno tripled 634, with 223-191-220, in the Independent wheel.

Rose Schatzel's 173-223-182 for 578 in the Woman's Major was the top distaff effort. Dot Donnaruma led the Women's Junior Major with 135-183-163 for 481.

Lou Surhoff and Joe Markle tied with 577s in the Junior Major League. Markle also picked up high single of 229.

SPIN-FISHING A PAIR OF WORMS

HERE IS A TRICK FOR USING A PAIR OF WORMS WITHOUT SINKERS IN STREAM FISHING. RIG HOOK AS SHOWN. CAST ACROSS CURRENT AND SLIGHTLY UPSTREAM. DON'T ENGAGE PICKUP AFTER THE CAST ALIGHTS. FEED LINE TO SINKING BAIT BY FINGER CONTROLLING IT ON SPOOL'S LIP. IT LETS BAIT SINK NATURALLY TO BUMP ALONG ON STREAM BOTTOM.

WHEN LINE STOPS, TAKE UP SLACK. IF IT THROBS, STRIKE.

Three New Teams Set For Tournament Debut

HUSBAND-WIFE TEAM: Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Aitken, formerly of Lexington, handle the lines behind a pair of pacers on the Saratoga Raceway training track. Here Mrs. Aitken handles Old Grand-Dad, owned by Charles B. Kendall Jr. of Greenwich, while Aitken reins Miss Cheerful, property of William Cassaro and Sam Messano of Gloversville.

The last of six seeded teams—McAuleys of Poughkeepsie—and two newcomers, Monticello Chiefs and Hudson K of C, make their Kingston tournament debut tonight at the municipal auditorium.

Lincoln Park Inn of the YMCA League, 72-66 winners over Hudson Savoias on opening night, will test the crack McAuleys at 7:30 p. m.

A little more than an hour later, George McElroy and Andy Murphy present the Monticello Chiefs and Hudson Caseys.

McAuleys are one of the strongest squads in Dutchess county and will have such standouts as Richie Moran, Bob Mastin, the three Murphys—Matt, Tim and Tom—and Bob McKenna.

Moran ranks among the best scorers in the fast Poughkeepsie city league.

Former DUSO Aces

Monticello has a collection of former DUSO League performers like Lenny Schwartz, Mort Kaplan, Norm Culligan and Andy McCullough. Bob Diehl rounds out the roster. The Chiefs also moved into Orange county to pick up a pair of cuties in Jay Decker, who was a fabulous high school scorer at Walden High and high scoring Bill Baker of Goshen.

Not much is known of the Knights of Columbus strength but tournament officials predict they will show more than the Ericksons.

Key Games Thursday

A pair of key games is scheduled Thursday between Pine Plains Bombardiers and Sickler's Delivery at 8:30 and Valley Gardens against the speedy Otisville combine at 7:30.

The eventual tournament winner could emerge from that quartet.

No games are scheduled Friday.

Sportsmen Meet

Marbletown Sportsmen's Club meets Thursday, April 1. Refreshments will be served and a 30-minute color film entitlted "Fishing in Alaska" will be shown.

ABC Champs Fizzle With 2826 Series

Seattle, March 30 (AP) — The American Bowling Congress observed "Detroit Day" at the 51st annual tournament yesterday with teams from the Motor City taking over 7th and 10th places in the open team division standings and individual Detroit bowlers figuring in other changes in top rankings.

While the defending team champion, Pfeiffers Beer of Detroit, was having a bad night, Maple Lanes Recreation held up honors of the Michigan City, rolling a 2874 which gave them 7th place in the open division. The Pfeiffers obviously off form, rolled a 2826 which squeezed them into a 10th place berth.

Don Carter, all star match game champion, didn't disappoint the crowd of 3,000—largest ever to watch a bowling match in Seattle. He rolled a 611 series on 234 and 223 games after a 194 opening round that cost him his chance for his 13th straight 200 or plus game in ABC play.

Two 19-year-olds led Detroit entries into the standings columns yesterday afternoon.

Don Glinski, an unheralded tool and die apprentice, copped first place in the singles event standings with a 674 score on games of 224-245-250. He displaced Jim Nelson of Portland, Ore., from the No. 1 spot. Nelson's 665 tally had stood for the best since the Tourney's second day.

George O'Donnell, rookie pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates, was the "rookie of the year" in the Pacific Coast League in 1953.

In his rookie year for the Cardinals in 1953, Ray Jablonski played in all of his team's 157 games.

Nielsen Meets Witzig In Wrestling Feature

Art Nielsen of Atlanta, Ga. and Jack Witzig of Minneapolis, two grapplers who have built up a natural rivalry, will clash in the feature wrestling exhibition in the municipal auditorium on Tuesday, April 6.

Two more events will round out the program.

Nielsen, known as one of the roughest men in the game, has been on the opposite side of the fence against Witzig on numerous occasions but they haven't been solo opponents in this section before.

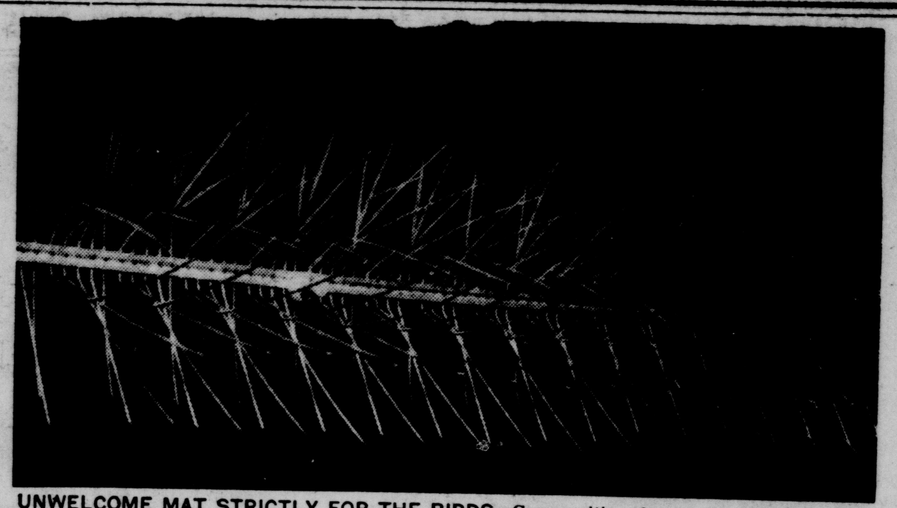

Neilsen is the leader of the Nielsen-Reggie Lisowski tag team which captured the World's Wrestling Alliance trophy several weeks ago in Marigold Gardens, Chicago, against Witzig and his partner, Wild Bill Melby of Salt Lake City.

They successfully defended the crown against Witzig and Melby five times and then lost recently to their No. 1 challengers when the referee disqualified them for kicking Witzig and Melby after the decision had been rendered in their favor. There's quite a dispute going on over that decision.

That's why there's no love lost between the two main-eventers in the Kingston feature Tuesday.

Burglar Could Work

Gosport, Ind. (AP) — Burglars aren't supposed to be advocates of honest toil but the loot taken from a Gosport store included $750 worth of work clothes.

UNWELCOME MAT STRICTLY FOR THE BIRDS—Communities plagued by pigeons or other bird pests roosting on public buildings or private homes should be interested in the device pictured above. Called Nixalite, it's the latest in pigeon-pushers, currently being tried out in Columbus, Ohio. Like a lot of other "new" gadgets, it's old. It's just a modernization of the old 19th Century military roadblock called a cheval-de-frise, first used by Frieslanders to stop enemy cavalry. The pigeon-puncturer comes in four-foot sections, each section consisting of a strip of metal tape to which are welded 1920 long sharp prongs similar to kitchen skewers. They stick out in all directions and the maker says they're guaranteed to change a pigeon's "Coo" to "Ouch!"

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGES IN TELEPHONE RATE SCHEDULES

Notice is hereby given that the following proposed changes in telephone rate schedules in the Esopus, Kingston and Ulster Park exchanges have been filed with the Public Service Commission to be effective April 10, 1954:

The Kingston exchange will be extended to include the Ulster Park exchange and the designation Ulster Park will be discontinued. The 10¢ toll charge now in effect between Esopus and Kingston will be discontinued and local service will be furnished between these points for subscribers within these exchanges. The public telephone rate of 10¢ for calls between Esopus and Kingston will continue in effect.

No change will be made in the monthly rates for subscribers in the present Kingston and Ulster Park exchanges, but rates for Esopus subscribers will be changed as shown below, the new rates being the same as those now applying in the present Kingston exchange. In addition, individual and party-line service will hereafter be quoted in the territory now served by the Ulster Park exchange.

*Exchange line mileage charges apply, in addition, to individual and party-line services furnished outside the Esopus and Kingston base rate areas.

NQ indicates not quoted.

Coincident with the above changes, charges for time of day service will be introduced in the Esopus exchange. A charge of one local message will apply from message rate telephones, a charge of 5¢ will apply from flat rate telephones and a charge of 10¢ will apply from coin telephones for each completed call for time.

The proposed rates shown above are temporary rates to be effective pending the suspension of tariffs of increased rates filed by the New York Telephone Company with the Public Service Commission on November 30, 1953 and until permanent rates for such service can be made effective.

C. of C. Considers age disposal system within the bounds of such prescribed area.

The resolution further acknowledged the fact that such an activity to be properly enforced and effective may require additional personnel and asks the board of supervisors to provide such additional help as may be found necessary.

Developments during recent years have caused Chamber of Commerce activities to extend beyond city lines. Mutual interests and common problems, as well as requests for activities and representation as members, have caused the board to recommend the change in name. Action, however, must be taken by the entire membership at a duly called meeting.

The Resolution

The following is a complete copy of the resolution adopted at the Monday meeting of the board of directors:

Whereas there is a probability of considerably increased building construction in and near the City of Kingston, and in the County of Ulster, with resulting density of population, and it is in the general interest that precautions be taken to safe-guard the lives and health of all residents; and.

Whereas ultimate control of the size of building lots and general area development is best handled through area planning and zoning and although it appears that zoning plans are now being considered in several towns of the County, much time will elapse before a zoning law can be adopted in the outlaying areas; and

Whereas the Ulster County Board of Health does not assume direct jurisdiction at the present time over sewage disposal systems of the individual property owner whose property does not come under the provisions of the Public Health Law, or Article VIII of the Sanitary Code of the County of Ulster relating to Realty Subdivision, but it is provided under Article IV of the said Sanitary Code that the Commissioner of Health may designate any unincorporated area in the County as one in which approval of individual sewage systems must be given, it is

Recommended to the Ulster County Board of Health, and the Commissioner thereof, that all land within the County of Ulster or so much thereof as the Commissioner of Health may deem feasible and expedient, be declared subject to the provisions of Article IV, Section 1, of the Sanitary Code of the Ulster County Health District, so as to require a permit from the Commissioner of Health before constructing a sewage disposal system within the bounds of such prescribed area, and it is further

Recommended to the Ulster County Board of Supervisors and the Ulster County Board of Health, that such additional personnel be provided for the County Department of Health as may be required to properly supervise and enforce the provisions of said Section for the additional area prescribed by the Commissioner of Health.

Nielsen Meets Witzig In Wrestling Feature

Art Nielsen of Atlanta, Ga. and Jack Witzig of Minneapolis, two grapplers who have built up a natural rivalry, will clash in the feature wrestling exhibition in the municipal auditorium on Tuesday, April 6.

Two more events will round out the program.

Nielsen, known as one of the roughest men in the game, has been on the opposite side of the fence against Witzig on numerous occasions but they haven't been solo opponents in this section before.

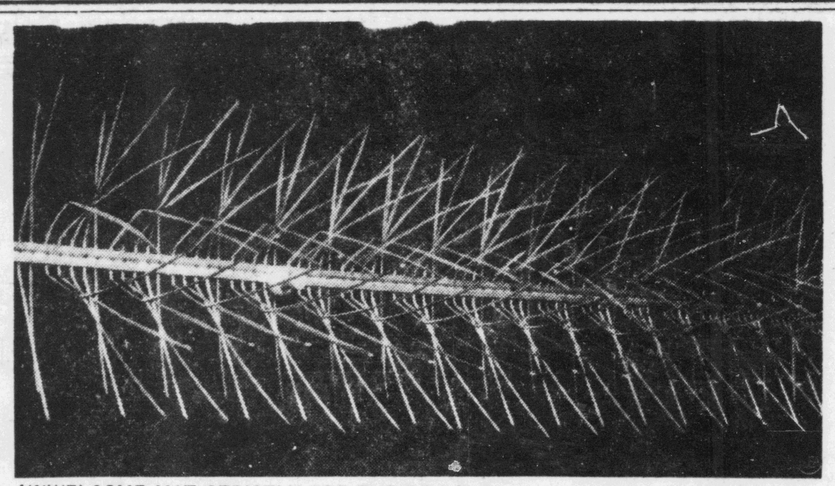

Neilsen is the leader of the Nielsen-Reggie Lisowski tag team which captured the World's Wrestling Alliance trophy several weeks ago in Marigold Gardens, Chicago, against Witzig and his partner, Wild Bill Melby of Salt Lake City.

They successfully defended the crown against Witzig and Melby five times and then lost recently to their No. 1 challengers when the referee disqualified them for kicking Witzig and Melby after the decision had been rendered in their favor. There's quite a dispute going on over that decision.

That's why there's no love lost between the two main-eventers in the Kingston feature Tuesday.

Burglar Could Work

Gosport, Ind. (AP) — Burglars aren't supposed to be advocates of honest toil but the loot taken from a Gosport store included $750 worth of work clothes.

UNWELCOME MAT STRICTLY FOR THE BIRDS—Communities plagued by pigeons or other bird pests roosting on public buildings or private homes should be interested in the device pictured above. Called Nixalite, it's the latest in pigeon-pushers, currently being tried out in Columbus, Ohio. Like a lot of other "new" gadgets, it's old. It's just a modernization of the old 19th Century military roadblock called a cheval-de-frise, first used by Frieslanders to stop enemy cavalry. The pigeon-puncturer comes in four-foot sections, each section consisting of a strip of metal tape to which are welded 1920 long sharp prongs similar to kitchen skewers. They stick out in all directions and the maker says they're guaranteed to change a pigeon's "Coo" to "Ouch!"

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGES IN TELEPHONE RATE SCHEDULES

Notice is hereby given that the following proposed changes in telephone rate schedules in the Esopus, Kingston and Ulster Park exchanges have been filed with the Public Service Commission to be effective April 10, 1954:

The Kingston exchange will be extended to include the Ulster Park exchange and the designation Ulster Park will be discontinued. The 10¢ toll charge now in effect between Esopus and Kingston will be discontinued and local service will be furnished between these points for subscribers within these exchanges. The public telephone rate of 10¢ for calls between Esopus and Kingston will continue in effect.

No change will be made in the monthly rates for subscribers in the present Kingston and Ulster Park exchanges, but rates for Esopus subscribers will be changed as shown below, the new rates being the same as those now applying in the present Kingston exchange. In addition, individual and party-line service will hereafter be quoted in the territory now served by the Ulster Park exchange.

4-Pty. Line	2.50	3.00	NQ	3.00
Rural Line	2.50	3.00	3.00	3.00

*Exchange line mileage charges apply, in addition, to individual and party-line services furnished outside the Esopus and Kingston base rate areas.

NQ indicates not quoted.

Coincident with the above changes, charges for time of day service will be introduced in the Esopus exchange. A charge of one local message will apply from message rate telephones, a charge of 5¢ will apply from flat-rate telephones and a charge of 10¢ will apply from coin telephones for each completed call for time.

The proposed rates shown above are temporary rates to be effective pending the suspension of tariffs of increased rates filed by the New York Telephone Company with the Public Service Commission on November 30, 1953 and until permanent rates for such service can be made effective.

age disposal system within the bounds of such prescribed area.

The resolution further acknowledged the fact that such an activity to be properly enforced and effective may require additional personnel and asks the board of supervisors to provide such additional help as may be found necessary.

Developments during recent years have caused Chamber of Commerce activities to extend beyond city lines. Mutual interests and common problems, as well as requests for activities and representation as members, have caused the board to recommend the change in name. Action, however, must be taken by the entire membership at a duly called meeting.

The Resolution

The following is a complete copy of the resolution adopted at the Monday meeting of the board of directors:

Whereas there is a probability of considerably increased building construction in and near the City of Kingston, and in the County of Ulster, with resulting density of population, and it is in the general interest that precautions be taken to safe-guard the lives and health of all residents; and.

Whereas ultimate control of the size of building lots and general area development is best handled through area planning and zoning and although it appears that zoning plans are now being considered in several towns of the County, much time will elapse before a zoning law can be adopted in the outlaying areas; and

Whereas the Ulster County Board of Health does not assume direct jurisdiction at the present time over sewage disposal systems of the individual property owner whose property does not come under the provisions of the Public Health Law, or Article VIII of the Sanitary Code of the County of Ulster relating to Realty Subdivision, but it is provided under Article IV of the said Sanitary Code that the Commissioner of Health may designate any unincorporated area in the County as one in which approval of individual sewage systems must be given, it is

Recommended to the Ulster County Board of Health, and the Commissioner thereof, that all land within the County of Ulster or so much thereof as the Commissioner of Health may deem feasible and expedient, be declared subject to the provisions of Article IV, Section 1, of the Sanitary Code of the Ulster County Health District, so as to require a permit from the Commissioner of Health before constructing a sewage disposal system within the bounds of such prescribed area, and it is further

Recommended to the Ulster County Board of Supervisors and the Ulster County Board of Health, that such additional personnel be provided for the County Department of Health as may be required to properly supervise and enforce the provisions of said Section for the additional area prescribed by the Commissioner of Health.

Broader Power

mum program" of four major, interlocked parts:

Foreign aid—"which we wish to curtail."

Investments abroad—which we wish to encourage."

Free exchange of one currency for another—"which we wish to facilitate."

Foreign trade—"which we wish to expand."

The President said he considers its essential to achieve each of these objectives, declaring:

Refers to Free Market

"Unless we are prepared to adopt the policies I have recommended to expand export and import trade and increase the flow of our capital into foreign investment, our friends abroad may be discouraged in their effort to re-establish a free market for their currencies. If we fail in our trade policy, we may fail in all. Our domestic employment, our standard of living, our security, and the solidarity of the free world—all are involved.

"For our own economic growth we must have continuously expanding world markets; for our security we require that our allies become economically strong. Expanding trade is the only adequate solution for those two pressing problems confronting our country."

While Eisenhower asked for a three-year extension of the trade agreements law, there are signs in Congress he may have to settle for a two or even one-year continuation, perhaps without the added authority to cut duties he and the Randall Commission asked.

What Changes Mean

The changes would empower the President, through negotiations with other countries, to make these tariff reductions during the three year extension period:

1. A cut of 5 per cent a year on specifically selected commodities. If presidential authority to negotiate tariff reductions up to 50 per cent under present law has been used up, this would grant additional authority. If the authority hasn't been used up, the proposal would limit reductions to a total of 15 per cent.

2. A cut to 50 per cent of the value of the goods of all tariffs now exceeding that figure.

3. A cut of as much as 50 per cent in the rates in effect on Jan. 1, 1945, on products not being imported at all or only in "negligible volume." This could be done by the United States alone, as well as by negotiation.

United Action By Free Nations Urged by Dulles

New York, March 30 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles—speaking with the advance approval of President Eisenhower — urges "united action" by the free nations to prevent Communist domination of Indochina and all southeast Asia.

Communist domination in that area of the world "would be a grave threat to the whole free community," Dulles said in a major foreign policy declaration and added:

"The United States feels that that possibility should not be passively accepted, but should be met by united action.

"This might have serious risks. But these risks are far less than would face us a few years from now, if we dare not be resolute today.

"Sometimes it is necessary to take risks to win peace, as in war it is necessary to take risks to win victory. The chances for peace are usually bettered by letting a potential aggressor know in advance where his aggression could lead him."

Rev. Gaise Says Nurses' Mission Is To Serve, Comfort

Sixteen students who completed the first six months of the course in nursing at Kingston Hospital were formally accepted into the school in capping ceremonies held Thursday evening at the Nurses Residence.

During the program marking the occasion, the nurses cap of the school is presented to the student, to wear from that day on with her uniform. The student nurse Glee Club under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Branigan gave three selections.

The Rev. David Gaise of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, who gave the main address, reviewed the early era of nursing, pointing out that it was the result of Christian and humanitarian ideals that modern nursing came into being. He emphasized the fact that there must be within a person the true calling or inmost desire; that at sometime the hand of God had reached out and touched them saying, This is what you want to do, to go among people helping the sick and afflicted."

The Rev. Mr. Gaise reminded all that Angels of Mercy are but messengers of the Master, and that only the nurse has the opportunity of close contact and communion with the sick and troubled person.

The nurse's mission is to serve, encourage and sympathize physically, mentally and spiritually; to "ask God to give thee skill in comfort's art, that thou may'st consecrated be and set apart, unto a life of sympathy, for heavy is the weight of ill in every heart, and comforters are needed much of Christlike touch," concluded the Rev. Mr. Gaise.

Miss Sandra Dolson of the senior class told the group what the cap had meant to them, and to nurses through the ages. The meaning is dignity, poise, pride and confidence which it carries to the minds of people as well as to the one who wears it. She asked these younger nurses to wear it proudly and with thoughtfulness.

The caps were presented by Miss Almena Porter, director of the School of Nursing, and little Nightingale lamps were presented by Miss Elizabeth Carr, president of the Student Association, and each candle lighted by the Lady of the Lamp, portrayed by Sylvia Bell.

The 150 guests remained for refreshments and a social hour following the ceremony.

Those in the group who received nurses caps are: Eleanor K. Cohen, Barbara A. Green, Susanna S. Paulus, Eileen A. Sickler, Mary L. Stewart, and Elayne V. Van Aken of Kingston; Grace E. Braymer, Delhi; Helen M. Buist, Norfolk, Va.; Josephine Cambereri, Otisville; Janice E. Howard, Stone Ridge; Gloria C. Lounsberry, High Falls; Anne Oakley, Napanoch; Anita E. Potter, Lexington; Hazel M. Scoba, Cold Spring; Elsie E. Trips, Ferndale; and Madeline F. Vendetti, Utica.

Local Fisherman Catch 'Jack Shad'

Local fisherman having a look at conditions in the Hudson river Sunday hauled in a "jack shad," and a carp, but saw nothing of the true shad which are expected along in about two weeks, Louis Naccarato, of the Kingston Point area, said today.

The jack shad, which fishermen look upon as an "oversized herring" was caught by Michael Turck and his brother got the carp, Naccarato said. The jack shad, he said, are also known as skippers.

This catch, however, can be taken as an indication that the bigger fish are on their northward swim. The true shad weighs from two and a quarter pounds upward, while the skippers do well to make a pound, the fisherman said.

Highland Woman Reported 'Fair'

A Highland woman reported injured in an accident early Sunday morning was placed on the "critical" list at St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie last night but was reported improving this morning.

State police of the Highland station were informed by hospital authorities Monday night that the condition of Mrs. Ann Traux, 28, of Highland, had deteriorated and she was placed on the "critical" list. When the accident occurred at 3:45 a. m. Sunday her injuries were thought to be comparatively minor, listed as lacerations and a possible arm fracture, troopers reported, but internal injuries became apparent later, according to the report to troopers.

Had Good Night

Hospital authorities said this morning, however, that Mrs. Traux had a "fairly comfortable night" and her condition was reported as "fair" at mid-morning.

Mrs. Traux was the driver of an automobile that crashed into guard rails and a utility pole on a road two miles west of Highland. She told troopers at the time that she swerved the automobile to the right when she was blinded by the lights of an approaching vehicle.

mum program" of four major, interlocked parts:

Foreign aid—"which we wish to curtail."

Investments abroad—which we wish to encourage."

Free exchange of one currency for another—"which we wish to facilitate."

Foreign trade—"which we wish to expand."

The President said he considers its essential to achieve each of these objectives, declaring:

Refers to Free Market

"Unless we are prepared to adopt the policies I have recommended to expand export and import trade and increase the flow of our capital into foreign investment, our friends abroad may be discouraged in their effort to reestablish a free market for their currencies. If we fail in our trade policy, we may fail in all. Our domestic employment, our standard of living, our security, and the solidarity of the free world—all are involved.

"For our own economic growth we must have continuously expanding world markets; for our security we require that our allies become economically strong. Expanding trade is the only adequate solution for those two pressing problems confronting our country."

While Eisenhower asked for a three-year extension of the trade agreements law, there are signs in Congress he may have to settle for a two or even one-year continuation, perhaps without the added authority to cut duties he and the Randall Commission asked.

What Changes Mean

The changes would empower the President, through negotiations with other countries, to make these tariff reductions during the three year extension period:

1. A cut of 5 per cent a year on specifically selected commodities. If presidential authority to negotiate tariff reductions up to 50 per cent under present law has been used up, this would grant additional authority. If the authority hasn't been used up, the proposal would limit reductions to a total of 15 per cent.

2. A cut to 50 per cent of the value of the goods of all tariffs now exceeding that figure.

3. A cut of as much as 50 per cent in the rates in effect on Jan. 1, 1945, on products not being imported at all or only in "negligible volume." This could be done by the United States alone, as well as by negotiation.

United Action By Free Nations Urged by Dulles

New York, March 30 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles—speaking with the advance approval of President Eisenhower — urges "united action" by the free nations to prevent Communist domination of Indochina and all southeast Asia.

Communist domination in that area of the world "would be a grave threat to the whole free community," Dulles said in a major foreign policy declaration and added:

"The United States feels that that possibility should not be passively accepted, but should be met by united action.

"This might have serious risks. But these risks are far less than would face us a few years from now, if we dare not be resolute today.

"Sometimes it is necessary to take risks to win peace, as in war it is necessary to take risks to win victory. The chances for peace are usually bettered by letting a potential aggressor know in advance where his aggression could lead him."

Dulles' declaration on the Communist threat in the Far East was delivered last night in an address before the Overseas Press Club at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.
